K WOULD HAVE HELPED SEAMAN WHO DEFECTED

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev said today "it's all right with me" if a Soviet sailor defector stays in the United States.

"If he had approached me—I was on the same ship—I would even have furnished him with some money for the first period until he finds a job," Khrushchev said.

Yanks Square Series

Whip Pirates 12-0,
Final Game Thursday

(Play by Play Page 35)

PITTSBURGH (AP)—New York Yankees opened up their big guns again behind the sparkling pitching of Whitey Ford to crush Pittsburgh Pirates 12-0 and tie the World Series at 3-3. The seventh and deciding game will be played at Forbes Field Thursday.

It was the third runaway victory by the Yankees, who lost three tight thrillers to the clanking Pirates. The Yankees broke and tied a flock of World Series batting records, headed by surprising Bobby Richardson.

The little second baseman, who hit only .252 and batted in only 26 runs during the regular season, drove in three runs with two triples. This gave him 12 runs batted in, breaking the World Series record of 10 set by Yogi Berra in 1956 and tied by Ted Kuzewski in 1959.

Second Whitewash

Ford, who pitched a four-hitter in the Yankees' 10-0 third-game victory, earned his second shutout with a seven-hitter. He fanned five and had the Pirates hitting into the dirt most of the way.

It was Whitey's seventh World Series triumph against four defeats and the first time he has won a series game away from Yankee Stadium.

The Yanks bombed six pitchers for 17 hits, scoring one run in the second inning, five in the third and two each in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

In Thursday's decider, Pittsburgh righthander Vernon Law, winner of two games, probably will face rookie Bill Stafford, who pitched five shut-out innings in the 5-2 loss to Pittsburgh in the fifth game Monday.

Big Third Inning

Ford's scratch single with the bases loaded in the second inning got the Yanks off in front. In the third they blasted righthander Bob Friend from the mound with a five-hit, five-run attack for a 6-0 lead.

In the sixth, the Yanks clubbed Fred Green and Clem Labine for two runs on Clete Boyer's triple and singles by Tony Kubek, Roger Maris and Berra.

In the seventh, catcher John Blanchard's double, Richardson's second triple—tying a series record for triples in one game—and Ford's sacrifice bunt made it 10-0. In the eighth, a single by Maris, a force play by Mantle and a steal off second by Mickey, a single by Berra and another double by Blanchard accounted for the final two runs.

LINEUP: NEW YORK: 1. Ford, 2. Richardson, 3. Mantle, 4. Maris, 5. Berra, 6. P. M. C. Shumateher, 7. Whitey Ford, 8. Yogi Berra, 9. Mickey Vernon. PITTSBURGH: 1. Bill Stafford, 2. Bob Friend, 3. Fred Green, 4. Clem Labine, 5. Tony Kubek, 6. Roger Maris, 7. Clete Boyer, 8. Bill Mazeroski, 9. Bill Mazeroski.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, help me to maintain a sense of justice in all human relations. But when someone has erred, may I be slow to criticize and quick to forgive, extending to others the compassionate understanding I would wish for myself. May I remember Him Who knew and cared for all, and walking in His ways, may my life reveal His spirit and reflect His forgiving love. Amen.

K Incites Colonies to Arm, Attacks U.S. Racial Strife

Faces UN Defeat On Two Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced Negro discrimination in the United States today and said colonial peoples must "take to arms" unless the United Nations decrees an end to colonialism throughout the world.

Khrushchev, undaunted by his General Assembly defeat on disarmament last night (see Page 3), went back today to denounce colonialism and to speak on another pet subject—the American U-2 spy flight. He faced defeat on both issues.

Khrushchev said previously that Russia's proposal to free the world's remaining "colonial" peoples immediately was not aimed at inciting insurrection anywhere. Today he told the General Assembly:

"The Soviet people are on the side of those who fight for their liberation from colonial yoke and for their freedom and independence."

He spoke from a prepared text and his delivery was in sharp contrast to his violent and angry speech to the assembly Wednesday night.

HITS DAG AGAIN

Khrushchev said Congolese strongman Co. Joseph Mobutu and "other scum-traitors" were in the pay of the "imperialist colonialists" who were bribing the army so they could continue their "colonial plunder" in the Congo.

He renewed his charges against Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and accused him of doing "everything possible in favor of the colonialists" in the Congo.

"He disorganized by his actions the normal function of the legitimate government (of Patrice Lumumba), deprived it of the means of transportation and communications," Khrushchev said.

He said western civilization

had decreased the native population in the Congo "almost twofold." He said Australia eliminated its aboriginal population and said the same thing happened to the American Indians, except for a remaining few who were "driven into reservations."

Then he took up the U.S. discrimination issue.

"Though the American Negroes at long last attained freedom after the abolition of slavery," he said, "even now they are subject to discrimination; their elementary human rights being limited to the minimum."

"In many a state of the U.S.A., Negro children cannot study at the same schools where white children study. Negroes are not allowed in the hotels where white people stay, they are not admitted to theatres, restaurants."

DE GAULLE
... calls cabinet

France Facing Crisis

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle called his cabinet together today to deal with the greatest government crisis since France formed the Fifth Republic in the summer of 1958.

An alarming rise of tension over a string of international and domestic issues threatened to make the national assembly's autumn working session, opening Friday, the stormiest in years.

ATOMIC VETO

Weekend statements by de Gaulle demanding an "atomic veto" aroused serious concern here and abroad over possible implications for the free world alliance.

De Gaulle's opponents also were hammering at him over Algeria and his snubbing of the United Nations.

Left-wing French intellectuals have gone so far as to urge desertion and draft-dodging from service in Algeria. The government has blacklisted them.

Two large labor organizations demanded a joint audience with the president to discuss "Algerian problems and the climate created by the prolongation of the conflict."

If De Gaulle gives in to the leftists and agrees to an Algerian peace on the terms of the Moslem rebels, he faces the anger of right-wingers who want to keep Algeria part of metropolitan France.

SLAYER STRIKES TWICE

Clutching his chest from first of two wounds, Japanese Socialist Party chairman Inejiro Asanuma stands helpless as his assailant whirled to thrust home 12-inch sword for second time. Fatal attack by right-wing extremist, 17-year-old Otaya Yamaguchi, came during Tokyo political rally. White spot above victim's left hand is flower on his lapel. He holds handkerchief in his right hand.

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Communist regime admitted today it is halting shipments of building materials from other Soviet satellites to West Berlin.

TOKYO (AP) — Inejiro Asanuma, Socialist Party chairman and leader of Japanese opposition to the U.S.-Japanese alliance, was stabbed to death with a foot-long sword by a student today.

The assassin, a slender 17-year-old identified as Otaya Yamaguchi, a former member of the ultra-nationalist Greater Japan Patriotic Society, was hurled to the floor by spectators and carried off to a police station.

Asanuma was hurried to hospital where he died of two chest wounds, one of them close to the heart.

Afterwards a crowd marched on the police station where Yamaguchi was being held. The demonstrators, whose numbers were estimated at 10,000, were led by left-wing Zengakuren Student Association and the Sohyo Labor Federation. A few broke windows in an ineffectual attempt to break in.

Half an hour later, the bulk of the crowd marched on to Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's official residence. There they snake-danced back and forth in the street, shouting "Give Asanuma back to us" and "Ikeda quit."

The demonstrators began to disperse after a cabinet official received leaders of the labor federation and told them the government would proceed with firmness.

Police reported that Yamaguchi told them Asanuma was a traitor who was trying to sell Japan to the Communists.

It was the first major political murder in 24 years in a country where "government by assassination" was prevalent before the war. But it was the third political stabbing by a right-wing fanatic in four months. The other two victims recovered.

Making Plea for Clean Campaign

Asanuma, 61, was in the midst of a speech at a meeting urging a clean campaign for the parliamentary elections next month when Yamaguchi rushed forward from the side of the stage.

The youth wore a raincoat over his black school uniform and boots, a trademark of the greater Japan Patriotic Society. He struck twice with his sword. Asanuma staggered two or three steps, held his chest, mumbled some words and collapsed on the blood-spattered stage.

Japan's three major political parties were participating in the forum, and Conservative Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda was sitting less than two yards away.

The Greater Japan Patriotic Society is a Nazi-like group that dreams of restoring Japan to its pre-war greatness. It clashed repeatedly with the left-wing demonstrators in riots last spring against the U.S.-Japanese treaty which forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

The leader of the society,

Cuba Seeks Death for 4

SANTA CLARA, Cuba (Reuters) — The prosecution demanded the death penalty for four of nearly 150 "counter-revolutionaries" on trial here before a revolutionary tribunal.

The prosecution also demanded 30-year jail sentences for 84 of the accused and 20-year sentences for 56 others. Four were cleared.

An American, Richard Pectoraro, was among those on trial.

The counter-revolutionaries are former soldiers of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista and two are women—were captured in the Sierra del Escambray in Las Villas province.

With th' sign bylaw comin' up, the sign makers seem t' be doin' more paintin' than paintin' these days.

Whut a wonderful sensation Mister Khrushchev's anti-colonialism w'd hev created a few years ago when there WERE colonies.

Labor Asks Session Now

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1,100,000-member Canadian Labor Congress urged today that Parliament be summoned into special session to deal with what the CLC says will be Canada's worst postwar unemployment problem this winter.

The call for an early parliamentary session on unemployment was made by the CLC's executive council at the midpoint of a three-day conference here.

At the same time CLC President Claude Jodoin issued a major policy manifesto outlining labor's program for full employment in Canada.

"Unemployment this winter will undoubtedly be the worst for any winter since the war—probably much worse than in the biggest previous postwar recession three years ago," said the CLC policy statement that warned flatly that Canada has entered a new recession.

The congress statement was issued just 12 days before Prime Minister Diefenbaker is to meet representatives of some 22 national organizations for a round-table conference on unemployment problems.

GROWTH TOO SLOW

The CLC manifesto contrasted falling production against a growing labor force which "will grow even faster as post-war babies come into the labor market."

Even before the new recession began, the statement said, production was not growing fast enough to provide enough jobs to go around and unemployment was "far above" pre-recession levels.

To achieve full employment, the congress proposed a far-reaching plan aimed at management, labor and all levels of government. It included proposals for large-scale government investment in the public sector of the economy to provide jobs and needed public works and services; adoption of a Full Employment Act with the appointment of a council of economic advisers and a bolstered labor department.

Other major proposals included immediate tax reductions to stimulate economic recovery, fiscal and monetary policies designed to establish a steady annual 5-per-cent rate of growth in the economy, co-operation with the provinces and municipalities to expand the public sector of the economy.

Pearl Harbor Warning Ignored

THEY WOULDN'T LISTEN

LONDON (AP) — A new biography of Sir Hubert Wilkins says the Australian explorer gave the United States four months' warning of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The book by John Grierson—Sir Hubert Wilkins, Enigma of Exploration—says Wilkins had dinner with the Japanese consul-general in Singapore at the Raffles Hotel in August, 1941.

The consul-general drank too much and confided that the Japanese were going to sink the American fleet in Pearl Harbor from the air.

"And as for Singapore," he said, "we shall walk in here from the north, whilst all your guns and fortifications are pointed to the south."

The Japanese said he was telling Sir Hubert, who died in 1958, "because I know you are a secret agent of the Americans, and because I know you will report this conversation to them and to the British, too, and they will say this story is fantastic, the consul was drunk and did not know what he was talking about, and they will not believe it."

That is exactly what happened, Grierson writes. Sir Hubert's report was not believed.

U.S. SKY-SPY ROCKET FAILS

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP) — The first shot in the super-secret Samos sky-spy satellite series failed Tuesday. The second stage rocket fell short of orbit.

The U.S. Air Force announced two hours after what had seemed a perfect launch that orbit was not achieved, for reasons unknown.

Samos, the air force hopes, will ultimately orbit the U-2 at scanning Russia's heartland.

New Threats By Congolese Against UN

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — The Congo's leaders threatened new sanctions against the United Nations today as the international body refused to bow to their ultimatum to hand over deposed premier Patrice Lumumba.

The College of Technical Commissioners, theoretically the country, threatened to break relations with the United Nations and to stop UN broadcasts on Leopoldville radio.

The announcement was made by Information Commissioner Albert Bolela who charged "the United Nations makes fun of our national army."

Rhee Backers Stay in Jail

SEOUL (Reuters) — The House of Representatives today gave unanimous approval to a bill suspending legal procedures for former officials now in detention who supported ex-president Syngman Rhee.

This move followed violent demonstrations outside the House Tuesday by about 10,000 persons demanding heavier punishment for the former officials. Fifty students broke into the chamber.

'WE'LL FIGHT LIKE HELL FOR ISLANDS'

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A Nationalist Chinese spokesman recoiled sharply Tuesday to the view of Democratic presidential candidate Senator John Kennedy on defending the offshore islands. Defence Minister Yu Ta-Wei said curtly the Nationalists will "fight like hell for Quemoy and Matsu" because they are "an integral part of the only China that the United States recognizes."

Victoria Militia units will be inspected by Brig. J. W. Bishop, B.C. area commander, at Bay Street armories next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. He will be accompanied by Capt. H. D. Crawford of the general staff branch of area headquarters.

'UN Turned Into Stable'

Green Makes Calm Reply, Pleads for Negotiations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev, in an ugly temper, let loose Tuesday night with a furious charge that Western disarmament efforts smell.

Khrushchev was clean-up man in a list of Communist speakers when he shouted that Western countries were turning the halls of disarmament negotiation into "horse stables" with such a stench that "no honest man could breathe."

Going down to a whacking defeat on a procedural issue involving disarmament, the Soviet premier told the West to beware of war and boasted that Soviet rockets are being mass-produced "like sausages out of a machine."

After the assembly session, Khrushchev declared that the Western powers had brought the world closer to war by opposing Russia's proposal that its disarmament resolution be debated in a full assembly plenary session rather than in committee.

The assembly voted 62 to 12, with 24 abstentions to accept its steering committee's recommendation that the Soviet disarmament proposal be sent to the political committee, which includes all members of the UN.

United States Ambassador James J. Wadsworth said the Soviet disarmament proposal, which envisages total disarmament, could be dealt with properly in the political committee "where it belongs" and not in a "table-thumping propaganda spectacle" in the plenary sessions.

Khrushchev—who made two speeches Tuesday, one moderate from a prepared text, the other impromptu and unrestrained—said chiefs of government who have left the assembly would return if there was a real chance of disarmament. He renewed his call for a special assembly session on disarmament to be held in Europe early next year, but this was rejected by Wadsworth, who denied the Russian's charge that the U.S. presidential election campaign was interfering with disarmament negotiations.

Offer to Stay on Indefinitely

In his second speech, he announced he was deliberately seeking to shake up the delegates. He said they personally would run the risk of being destroyed in a new war.

Scheduled to leave late Thursday, he would remain here indefinitely if there was a chance of achieving disarmament.

Khrushchev said he had listened to the representatives of Britain, the U.S. and Canada, who all spoke in "righteous" tones. "The colonizers are rich because they plunder the poor, and here they act holler-than-thou."

The Soviet Union had walked out of the 10-nation disarmament committee because "you turned it into a horse stable." There was such a stench in there that no honest man could breathe.

SCARE CAMPAIGNS FAIL TO REDUCE ACCIDENTS

CLEVELAND (AP)—The grisly photograph, the statistics that compute your chances of being killed in traffic by sundown of a holiday—these and other tools in traffic safety "scare campaigns," don't reduce accidents, an expert said today.

Dr. James Malfetti, executive officer of the safety research and education project at Columbia University, reported:

"We have found so far no instance in which scare campaigns in traffic safety have reduced accidents," Dr. Malfetti said, "and we have some evidence that they may do more harm than good."

High Living No Cure for Ugly Cities

VANCOUVER (CP)—Prosperity and a high average standard of living are not sufficient cure for slums and blight on the Canadian landscape, a leading architect said Tuesday.

Harland Steele, of Toronto, president of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, told a Rotary Club meeting that the cities and towns of Canada are spreading out over new ground at the rate of nearly 100 square miles a year.

He said that in some of the larger Canadian cities the problem of urban renewal—redevelopment and the repair, rehabilitation and improvement of structures—has reached, or soon will reach, a stage where only imaginative approaches are likely to have much hope of success.

With the tremendous building job to be carried out during the balance of the century, he told the service club members, there must be the closest collaboration among architects and contractors, engineers, suppliers, planners, realtors and municipal officials.

Yells Swapped On UN Floor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev had a brief wrangle with the Spanish delegation on returning to his seat after delivering a fighting speech in the UN General Assembly Tuesday night.

Khrushchev, noticing that Spanish ambassador Don Jose Felix de Lequerica hadn't joined in applause, shouted: "The Spanish people will have their say."

A member of the Spanish delegation, seated just forward of the Soviets, yelled: "We don't like you."

A Spaniard rose in his seat and UN security officials surged forward. Khrushchev sat down and the incident ended.

Don't Testify Against Tab, Witness Told

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP)—A prosecution witness in the trial of Tab Hunter on a dog-boating charge said Tuesday she had been threatened first and then offered a $2,000 bribe not to testify against the actor.

Joanne Elliott, a waitress at a Burbank cafe, told prosecutor William Dickerson that a man phoned her last week and said it "would be unwise to testify against Tab."

A few days later, a caller, who she said sounded like the first man, told her it would be worth $2,000 if she failed to testify.

Hunter is charged with unnecessary cruelty to his Weimaraner, Fritz. He denies the charge and says he only slapped the dog with a play strap for digging holes in the back yard.

The blond actor appeared shocked by news of the alleged threat and bribe offer.

A-G Seizes Books Of B.C. Company

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province says Attorney-General Bonner has seized the books of a Vancouver corporation with a resources concession in Liberia.

The papers says three minute books of Magnatron Panel Company have been seized and five account ledgers were ordered confined to the company's office.

At the same time the superintendent of brokers of British Columbia started an investigation in a complex organization of companies revolving around Alfred Vang, of San Diego, Calif.

The Province quotes deputy superintendent William Irving as saying, "We are investigating four companies promoted by Vang in this area—Magnatron Aluminum, B.C. Aluminum and the Magnatron Hammer Companies."

The Province said Vang helped set up International African American Corporation, a multi-million-dollar Liberian resources concession, with Louis Detweiler, another international financier. Vang was also connected with Detweiler in trying to establish a similar concession in the Congo.

The paper says the superintendent of brokers will investigate the circumstances under which the shareholders paid Vang for patent rights to an electrical theory and control

Nervous Children

Enlightened Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

A mother says she has a 12-year-old boy who nearly drives her crazy because he is always blinking his eyes. She admits that she is constantly nagging at him and scolding him, and I guess she knows this is very wrong. It will only cause him to dislike her and feel resentful against her. Sometimes I am shocked when I see a grown son or daughter being very unkind to his or her old mother, and then it comes over me—how often, perhaps as I waited in a railroad station, I have watched a mother being very unpleasant and even cruel to a normally active and "into-everything" very bright and attractive little girl.

Alvarez

As I watched the mother being impatient and perhaps nasty with the child, my mind went ahead to a day 20 years from now when, perhaps in a doctor's office, the doctor will wonder how a daughter could be so unloving to, and so unpleasant with, her old mother. Many a time, when I have taken such a daughter aside and asked her why she so hated her mother, she has said, "I am so distressed and conscience-smitten because I hate my mother; I know it is so wrong; but all through my girlhood she was so constantly mean to me that I never had any reason to love her. I didn't want to hate her, and Oh, how I wish I didn't—but I do."

It is hard enough for a nervous child to have a "tic," as we doctors call a habit spasm; it is much harder and probably decidedly character-warping to have parents and schoolmates jeering at the youngster all the time.

How cruel many children and some adults are to the sickly child; they remind me of hens in a barnyard which keep pecking at the sick chicken. I have known some children with a tic who largely got over it, and I have known men of 70 who still kept making grimaces or hunching up one shoulder. A tic is not an easy thing to get rid of.

Mothers of mongoloid infants write to ask if their child is likely ever to grow tall or to get full intelligence and, sadly, I have to say I doubt it.

Fortunately, the mongoloid child often is good-natured and hence easy to take care of. Some with a very low intelligence probably can best be cared for in an institution, while the brighter ones can often be kept in the home. A very few mongoloids have become sufficiently adult to have children. As is the case with almost all children whose brain does not develop beyond a certain point, there is no miraculous cure that can be worked anywhere, and hence the parents should not use up all their savings taking the child around from one big clinic to another.

Occasionally, someone asks me if there is any real cure for his sickle cell anemia. Also, he wants to know what it is. It is an anemia in which some of the red blood cells, instead of looking like an after-dinner mint, look a bit like a tiny sausage bent over like an old-fashioned sickle or grass cutter. Associated with this deformity of the cells is a peculiarity in the chemistry of the hemoglobin (red coloring matter in the blood). Because the disease runs in families, it is not likely ever to be "cured." Fortunately, in many cases, there is "sickling" without much anemia.

I get letters from people who want to know if I think an herb-tea will keep their diabetes under control. No; I am sure it won't. The only thing I would expect it to do would be to throw some business in the way of their mortician. So many people are so averse to going to the trouble of taking care of their diabetes with diet or insulin or now, medicine taken by mouth, that they will gladly fall for the scheme of an ignorant or crook who comes along with an attractive promise. I remember two brothers who became millionaires—selling colored water to suckers—calling it a handy substitute for insulin. At last, the last caught up with them and the judge, who sentenced them gave them a tongue-lashing. As he said, they were not only crooks but murderers: in thousands of cases their "medicine" must have been responsible for the death of the person who took it when he should have been taking insulin.

People want to know if they should have a blood-sugar test. They certainly should, perhaps once a year, if they have diabetes in the family, and especially if they are getting fat, or if their skin is itchy, or they are having trouble with boils.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

'Cover-Up' for Wide Open Spaces

In the new residential areas where all trace of native plant growth has been removed before the houses were built, many years ago autumn color is apparent in the gardens.

A beginning can be made, however, the first year by adding one or two shrubs or trees known to contribute brilliant color during fall.

Plants may be chosen which will thrive in any soil, and in full sunshine since new gardens have little or no shade.

Fortunately, the shrubs to be mentioned here depend on full sun for their breathtaking inch.

Colors are fairly rapid growers, and what we call—easy doers.

The liquidambar, or sweetgum, is a much-branched shrub while young, growing up into a small, pleasant, short-branched tree of about 10 feet. Leaves resemble those of the maple but are smaller and more sharply pointed. The green foliage of summer is followed by the whole range of fall colors—pink, red and bronze.

Winter interest is sustained by the corky, serrated bark and bare-branch patterns.

WELL-EARNED

The next choice to produce an abundance of fall color lies with a shrub which will take up considerable space when fully developed, but as a three-season feature it earns every inch.

Readers may recall more than one of these garden columns written on the beauty of the smoke-bush. The fact is that I have raved about it ever since seeing a fully-grown specimen about three years ago.

Rhus copallina, as it is properly known, has roundish, dark-veined leaves in spring and summer; and also in summer a cloud of smoky purple flowers giving it the popular name of smoke-bush.

Once established as a small bush, growth is fairly rapid, until a height and width of about eight feet is reached.

Imagine this mound of foliage gradually assuming every fall color you ever dreamed about, until the whole thing looks as though the flames of a bonfire are running through it.

Perrault Challenge To Strachan

Ray Perrault, provincial leader of the Liberal party, challenged CCF leader Robert Strachan to a public debate on the question: Which alternative, Liberalism or CCF?

Speaking at a noon hour meeting of University of Victoria students Tuesday, Mr. Perrault said he was challenging Mr. Strachan for the fourth time to meet him or a public platform to debate the issue. Some 600 students squeezed into the auditorium to hear him.

Mr. Perrault told students that the Liberal movement in Canada is undergoing a large-scale reorganization in which young people play an important role.

YOUNGEST

He stressed that the Liberal party has the youngest average leadership of any party in Canada.

In reply to questions from the floor, Mr. Perrault outlined two definite Liberal plans for Victoria University: increased grants to all educational institutions and a plan to pay part of the travelling expenses of students with good academic standing coming to Victoria University from other parts of the province.

The meeting was sponsored by the Victoria University Liberal Club led by Walter Bell.

Gorst Again Elected By Liberals

James Gorst was re-elected president of Saanich Liberal Association at its annual meeting Tuesday.

Other officers include:

John Gardner, Frank Preston, W. Ivan Mouat, Mrs. E. T. Lee, vice-presidents; Mrs. L. I. Berard, secretary; T. J. O'Neill, treasurer.

Frank Greive, who ran for the Liberals in Saanich in the provincial election Sept. 12, thanked members for their support.

"We have learned a lot," he said.

It had been too much of a last-minute rush for the Liberals. Next time, the party will be better organized, he said.

Tariff Cut Due in 1962

BERN (Reuters) — The ministerial council of the seven-nation European Free Trade Association announced today it has decided against speeding up tariff cuts among its members.

The next 10 per cent all-round cut among the seven—Britain, Sweden, Switzerland, Norway, Denmark, Austria and Portugal—is due Jan. 1, 1962. Cabinet ministers of the participating nations had been discussing the possibility of an earlier date at a two-day meeting here.

'GREAT CHANCE' IN ESQUIMALT-SAANICH SAYS PERRAULT

Liberals Charge Into Byelection

B.C.'s new election campaign was opened here Tuesday by Liberal leader Ray Perrault.

A federal by-election in Esquimalt-Saanich will give the Liberals a chance to win a spokesman in Western Canada, said Mr. Perrault.

No date has been set, but a federal by-election must be within six months of notification of a vacancy. The notification to the Speaker may be made by any MP.

He made no bones about his target at the annual meeting of Saanich Liberal Association, in party headquarters, 1322-A Government.

The Esquimalt-Saanich vacancy—after Gen. George Pearkes' appointment as lieutenant-governor Tuesday—is a great chance for the Liberals, he said.

PRELUDE

"This is going to be the prelude to the general election, whether it's going to be next year or the year after."

Mr. Perrault said he is sure there won't be a federal election next June, as some opposition leaders have predicted.

"The unemployment situation is too grave. I don't think the country is going to be in a very happy mood come June."

Mr. Perrault said it is up to the federal Liberal organization to jump into the Esquimalt-Saanich fight.

(A meeting of the federal association is scheduled for October 21. Guest speaker will be former immigration minister Jack Pickersgill.)

"But I shall do everything in my power to make sure we win," said Mr. Perrault. "Our complete organization is coming in."

The Liberals haven't so far mentioned any names for a candidate, but it is believed two names are privately under discussion by the party's top officials.

"We are suffering from too many government members," said Mr. Perrault. The 18 Conservative MPs "are conspicuous by their silence."

The 1958 general election left not one Liberal MP west of Ontario.

Mr. Perrault said there is a great "electricity" running through the Liberal ranks in Canada and British Columbia.

The province went Social Credit September 12 partly through "a psychology of fear." The Socialists painted an awesome picture of British Columbia's fate under socialism, the CCF hit back at business.

The CCF's backing from organized labor didn't help much, he said. "They threw a Sunday punch at the electorate and the public didn't go down on the canvas."

TORIES OUT

"The Conservative party is no longer a factor in British Columbia politics," said Mr. Perrault. No Conservative was elected to the legislature.

Mr. Perrault said despite other issues of the election campaign, unemployment "is the number one concern." Premier Bennett has not answered his letter asking for a special cabinet committee on the subject.

The Liberals supported the CCF plea for a special fall session to thresh out the unemployment problem, he said.

His message for planners in the upcoming federal campaign: "Organization is the key to winning."

It must be a continuous process, not a short-lived burst. It must start now, he said.

'TEARS BUT NO BLOOD'

Tories Back Colonial Plan

SCARBOROUGH, Eng. (CP) — Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod today won overwhelming support from the Conservative Party's annual conference for the government's approach in leading colonies toward independence.

IAIN MACLEOD
...wants no Congo

"There will be toil, sweat and tears, but I hope not blood and bitterness," he said in winding up a debate on colonial and Commonwealth affairs.

Referring both to the Monckton commission's report and a forthcoming conference on the constitutional future of the Central African Federation, comprising the Rhodesias and Nyasaland, Macleod pledged that the government will continue its present approach.

"At the constitutional conference we will have to take grave and momentous decisions for the future. We see from recent events how terrible can be the results if the plans go wrong."

CONGO UN COLONY

Macleod described the Congo as still a colony—"for it is a colony of the United Nations despite all the proclamations of independence."

The colonial secretary stressed Britain's support for the UN efforts in the Congo. He made clear that Britain hoped that with the friendly co-operation of people in its colonies it could solve problems alone and not dump them into the UN's lap.

Macleod recalled that Prime Minister Macmillan, in a visit to the federation earlier this year, said "it is not the purpose of the Monckton commission to destroy the federation but rather to see how it can be made to flourish."

TECHNICAL AID PLAN

Macleod said Britain soon will unwrap a big technical aid scheme for African nations.

"Of course it will be expensive," he said.

The conference adopted a motion on colonial and Commonwealth affairs which called on the government to see "that legitimate rights are protected and legitimate aspirations fulfilled."

Many speakers from the floor interpreted this resolution to mean that the government should protect the property and security of Britons living in African territories which now are reaching full nationhood.

Rhodesia Rejects U.K. Plan

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters) — A British commission Tuesday recommended conditional right of secession to the three territories of the Rhodesian-Nyasaland Federation.

The recommendation immediately was rejected by federation Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky.

He told a press conference his government will "reject out of hand" the secession recommendation.

"Setting aside for the moment the fact that we believe the making of this recommendation dishonors the clear undertaking given to us, it remains one which if adopted could only lead to the disintegration of the federation."

BRITAIN REPLIED

Welensky claimed the government-appointed commission had exceeded its powers in the secession recommendation. A British government statement issued in London Tuesday night replied that the commission had not recommended secession but only "a qualified option to secede" some time in the future.

Tension also increased here Tuesday with a demand from white civilians to take the law into their own hands in suppressing racial disturbances.

The controversial federation of British-protected Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia with Southern Rhodesia, a self-governing colony, was founded eight years ago.

A 26-member commission, headed by Viscount Monckton, held a seven-month investigation earlier this year at the request of the British government. It has only advisory powers.

The commission made a number of sweeping recommendations:

1. White-dominated Southern Rhodesia must change its oppressive racial laws.
2. Africans, who represent 95 per cent of the federation's 8,230,000 population, must get parity with whites in the federal assembly.
3. Each territory must have the right to secede after a given period or at a given stage in the federation's constitutional development.

NEW-CHURCH, to be known as St. Patrick's, is nearing completion on Hautain, adjacent to site of present Our Lady of Lourdes Church, which will be used by monastic order of nuns, Poor Clares. Main construction is of Roman tile and edifice will seat close to 600 persons. Architect is John Di Castri and cost will be close to $180,000. Floor will be of mosaic tile, there will be indirect lighting throughout.

USE OF TOT'S SWEEP PRIZE SOUGHT

Dad Would Be Her Tenant

VANCOUVER (CP) — William Aubert plans to ask the British Columbia Supreme Court to allow his seven-year-old daughter to become his landlady.

That way, he says, he can move the child from a $65-a-month bungalow of crumbling stucco on a heavily-travelled highway in suburban Surrey to a quiet street close to a Roman Catholic school.

Mr. Aubert said he wants to use some of the $28,000 that his daughter, Donna Patricia, won on an Irish hospital sweepstakes ticket purchased for her by her grandfather in 1957 when Donna was four.

The law forbade the lottery operators to release the winnings to a minor, and the money is locked in trust in the Vancouver court registry until Donna turns 21.

Mr. Aubert says he can't on his earnings of $240 a month as an airlines maintenance man, provide the home and education that he wants for Donna.

"We understand," he said, "that the court will grant us a portion of the money now if we can show it will be used for Donna's benefit. After all, it's her money. But it will be her house. I suppose she'll be our landlady."

TECHNIQUE TO ISOLATE PATIENT

Surgery Through 'Balloon'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An operating "room" which contains only the patient's incision and the surgeon's tools is ready for trial as a means of preventing infection of surgical wounds.

The operating surgeon and his assistants work through the wall of a transparent plastic balloon.

The balloon wall has indentations shaped like jackets, helmets and arm-length gloves. The surgeon and his helpers fit into these indentations.

Sterile air is pumped to the isolated incision area, keeping the balloon inflated. The bottom of the balloon is glued to the area of the patient's body where the incision is to be made.

In wielding the scalpel, the surgeon cuts through the balloon where it is glued to the patient.

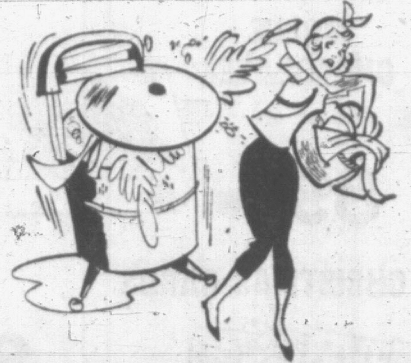

This new facility, produced at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, D.C., was described in a paper before the American College of Surgeons today by one of its developers, Dr. Stanley M. Levenson. The new setup hasn't been tried on patients yet but it is ready, Dr. Levenson said.

Rugby Man Tells Comeback Story

The tremendous strides made by the Japanese people since the end of the Second World War were spotlighted by Yuzuru Abe, manager of the marketing department, Yawata Iron and Steel Co. Ltd., in a talk Tuesday to Victoria Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Abe is in Canada with the Yawata Black Iron rugby club, of which he is assistant director.

It is undeniable, he said, that in little more than a decade and a half the Japanese people have been able to rise from under terrible handicaps to take a position as a respected nation of the free world.

To understand the changes, it was necessary to remember the background—the drama of the Japanese people at the close of the war.

DEJECTION

"You have to visualize the dejection of a defeated people, the exhaustion or destruction of industrial facilities, and the great need to place a prostrate economy upon its feet," he said.

It was only in 1956 that the output of steel ingot marked the 10-million-ton mark for the first time in the country's history. Yet three years later steel output exceeded 16.6 million tons and this year's production total is likely to exceed 20 million tons.

DOUBLED

"We can safely say, therefore, that in quantity, steel production has been doubled during the past five years—a far greater rate of increase than shown by any other major steel-making nation of the world," said Mr. Abe.

"As a result Japan has replaced France as the fifth largest steel producer in the world, following the U.S.A., Soviet Russia, West Germany and Great Britain."

Tibetan Yaks Bound For Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Six passengers, long-haired, humped and grunting, were to debark here early today to start a new life in northern Canada.

The yaks of Tibet—one bull, three cows and two calves—were headed for naturalist Al Oeming's game farm 15 miles east of the city, to see if they could make a better go of breeding here than they did near Ottawa.

Mrs. Oeming, said Tuesday she had received a telegram from an agricultural source in Ottawa advising her the beasts were on the way. Her husband, meanwhile, is in the United States rounding up more animals for his farm.

The yaks are a government project aimed at finding an animal suited for agriculture in Canada's far north. The animals can be used for milk, meat and as beasts of burden if they adjust themselves properly.

The yaks did not adjust themselves to conditions around Ottawa.

The Way of the Worry-Free

There's the high road and the low road — many are the lanes that lead from here to there.

The anxious road. The fretful road. The hazardous road — the rough and the smooth, the swift and the adventurous.

And there are those who think of all of these when they plan to go from here to there.

Ask the venturer who leaves his car behind why he rides with Canadian National Railways. Invariably you will find his reason in these half-dozen simple words — it's the way of the worry-free.

Luxury, restfulness. Quiet and roomy comfort. The courteous, the gracious air — all of these are there.

But beyond these is assurance. It is this, contrasted with the teeming and relentless traffic of today's highways, that is making a growing number of motorists say "when it's over 100 miles, I take the train."

Can't Count on Jackie To Help Solve Problem

MERRITT—"We need some goal scorers," says George Agar, but the Victoria coach is just about ready to give up on one player who may help Cougars pack a little punch up front when they open Western Hockey League action.

That man is Jack McLeod, a one-time National League performer for whom Cougars paid a goodly sum to Calgary Stampers for his playing rights.

Cougars, who open the season in Memorial Arena Friday night against Seattle Totems, trimmed their roster Tuesday but McLeod's name was still noticeable by its absence.

McLeod failed to report to Cougars' training camp at Vernon and today, for the first time, Agar admitted the club "may have to do without Jackie."

"When we first got him, McLeod said he was going to retire. Later he told club owner Jim Piggott that he may reconsider if the price is right. He wants a National League salary and I don't think he'll get it from us... or from any other team in this league."

Agar didn't bother to hide the fact that he was greatly disappointed Cougars haven't been able to lure McLeod from out of the Saskatchewan stubbles, where he hides in the summer.

"I'm in trouble," said Agar, "and I'm the first to admit it." "We had 55 chances for goals last night and got only four goals," he said, referring to Cougars' 4-2 victory over Merritt of the Okanagan Senior League.

DEAL COOKING

On the brighter side, Agar revealed "a deal is cooking" for three players, including a centre, from Seattle. He refused to name any of the players.

Cougars came down to 15 players by releasing juniors Gary Waugh and Don Macaw, veteran, defenceman Lionel Repka, winger Art Hart and centre Charlie Goodwin.

Veteran Karl Kaiser, who attended the 10-day camp at his own expense, was among the players still on hand. He will play on a trial basis. Kaiser was outstanding in two exhibition games against Vernon and Penticton.

Former Vernon Canadians forward Bill Swarbrick was another success at the Okanagan camp and will be given a five-game trial.

Centre Gerry Goyer scored three goals here Tuesday to spark Cougars to their exhibition.

Goyer was the difference as the newest Okanagan league team put up a spirited battle. Victoria's other goal was scored by defenceman Wayne North, who also earned two assists in a stand-out performance.

Marty Tahersky and Peter Serbu scored for Merritt.

FIGHT RESULTS

HARTFORD, Conn.—Billy Lynch, 147, Hartford, stopped Jimmy Johnson, 145, Edgemoor, S.C.

RICHMOND, Calif.—Johnny Cate, 121, Oakland, knocked out Jim Peroddy, 138, Reno, Nev.

LOS ANGELES—Ronnie Jones, 118½, Chicago, knocked out Al Pell, 117, New York.

FRESNO, Calif.—Gasper Ortega, 130½, Mexico City, outpointed K.R. Rayo, 147½, Los Angeles.

LONDON, Tenn.—Downs, 100½, Nashville, outpointed Joe Givens, 104½, Philadelphia.

TIME TO PRACTICE

Braves Cut Schoendienst

MILWAUKEE (AP)—One of baseball's finest figures, second baseman Albert (Red) Schoendienst, who led Milwaukee Braves to championships the two seasons he was available for full duty, has been given his unconditional release.

His freedom was Red's own choice. He turned down an offered job in the Braves' organization.

Red strikes out on his own at 37 in his continuing campaign to defy the effects of a bout with tuberculosis two years ago. Eighteen of his years have been devoted to baseball. And for 15 of these years he's been an established star in the majors, playing nearly all the time with St. Louis Cardinals.

Tagged for Minor Leagues, Face Bucs' Best in Series

(Times News Services)

PITTSBURGH—The big league scout was on vacation but, like most bird dogs do, he took a postman's holiday and stopped his car to watch a sandlot baseball game in West Lebanon, N.Y.

"That little guy," said Phillies scout Fred Matthews, "might do pretty good in the minors. Tell him I want to talk to him."

The "little guy" approached the car hesitantly.

"Look, son," said the scout, "you've got two strikes against you because of your pint-sized frame. But how would you like to sign a Pony League contract?"

The "little guy" did.

But earlier this week he looked like a giant nine feet tall to the New York Yankees.

His name is Elroy Face and he's still a squirt of five feet seven inches. But when the wheels his 150 pounds behind his rubbery right arm he makes the biggest hitters in the National League—and on the Yankees—feel more than slightly ineffectual.

Joe Page Passed on Important Tips

Little Elroy labored through the baseball vineyards at Bradford in the Pony League starting in 1949 and then went to Pueblo, Fort Worth and New Orleans. The Dodgers drafted him from the Phillies for their Montreal farm club and the Pirates drafted him in turn from there.

But it was while at New Orleans that he learned one of his most important clutch pitches, a fork ball. And he learned it from Joe Page, a one-time Yankee World Series hero, who was there attempting an ill-fated comeback.

Since coming up to stay with Pittsburgh in 1955, the little man has had amazing success as a relief hurler. In 1959 he compiled an amazing 18-1 record, winning 17 in a row and 22 consecutive games over two seasons, all major league marks for a relief pitcher.

He was in the bullpen when the sixth game started today at Pittsburgh, and he'll be there again Thursday if the Yankees square it up and the seventh game is needed to decide the issue.

"Why not?" asks the little guy, "I pitched in nine games in a row in 1956 so what's two more?"

To the Yankees, it might be murder.

Mantle Hobbled by Groin Injury

The fighting Bucs laughed off the statistics that showed they were batting only .246 as a team to the Yankees' .324 and had hit only one home run to eight by the Yanks. Considering that the Yankee sluggers also had one grand slam homer and their pitching staff had the only "complete game" of the series—a four-hit shutout by Ford—the figure fibbers were hard pressed to explain why Pittsburgh held a 3-2 edge in games.

Mickey Mantle, who needed only one more homer to match Babe Ruth's all-time series record of 15, was hobbled by a recurrence of the groin injury he suffered in late season. The Mick also was closing in on the series strikeout record of 11 set by Eddie Mathews, of Milwaukee, in 1958. Mantle has struck out eight times.

The Yanks were not quite as badly off as in 1958 when they came back from a 3-1 deficit and beat the Braves in seven games. Turley won the fifth game then with a shutout. Ford was knocked out in the second inning of the sixth game, won by the Yanks in 10 innings, and Don Larsen and Turley teamed up to win the finale.

Pittsburgh's last world championship was the result of the only other 3-1 comeback. The Pirates of 35 years ago bounced back all the way to nip Washington in seven games.

When a writer asked Stengel what he thought of Bob Friend, who gave up six hits and trailed 3-1 when he was removed for a pinch hitter in the second game, Casey said, "have you ever seen him pitch in an all-star game? I wish they had fired him in the spring. I'd claim him."

Friend was bitterly disappointed when he was taken out of the second game. He thought he could have beaten the Yankees then.

The team, composed mostly of British Columbia players, wound up an overseas tour by defeating West Bromwich Albion 1-0 in an exhibition tour. Reports of the game said West Bromwich fielded only some of its regular first team.

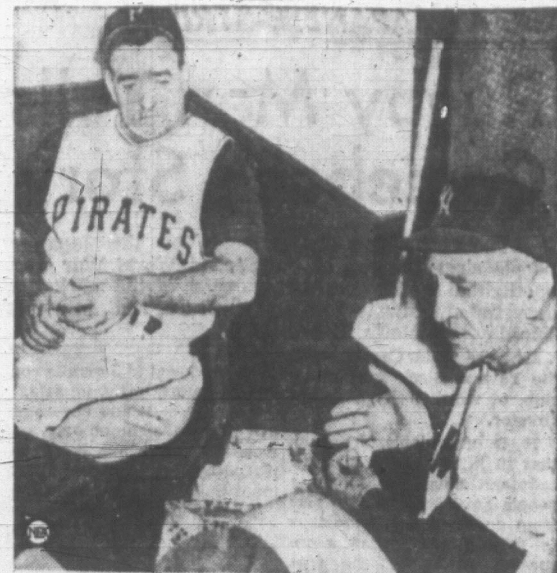

Said Dave Fryatt, secretary of the B.C. Soccer Commission, who accompanied the team: "They played their entire first team. Included were internationalists Stuart Williams, Don Howe, Ronnie Allen, Derek Kevan and all the rest."

"When Kevan was injured, West Brom brought in forward Alex Jackson, another first-team regular, as a substitute."

The game was Canada's only victory of the tour. They tied one game in Russia.

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Just noticing the golfers who found reason to be thankful during Thanksgiving weekend:

Ed Mackenzie picking up the Bunny Thompson Trophy at Uplands on Monday and pointing out his fine back-nine score. Mackenzie, 79-11-68, tied with A. Stewart, 80-12-68, for low net honors in the 18-hole medal event but walked off with the prize because of his better back-nine total.

Bob Morrison turning down offers of peppermints as he picked up the low gross prize in the same holiday tournament. He wasted little energy in scoring a 74 to edge Bill Wakeham, Claude Heggie and Frank Scroggs by one stroke.

John Furniston, 76-7-69, joining school teacher Dave Jones, 75-6-69; Earl Francis, 80-11-69; Mike Ott, 78-8-70, and Jim Reside, 77-7-70, in Walter Gravelin's pro shop to pick up the other prizes in the Thompson tournament.

Dr. George Bigelow, Oak Bay's happiest baritone, voicing appreciation of his one-under-par 68 round on his home course that gave him the early lead in the first of the winter season's monthly medal series. Two strokes back came Morrison, while Art Donaldson and Vic Painter were tied for third with 71s. Of Vic, a three-handicapper who also frowned at the well-meaning peppermint-pushers, edged Gorge Vale's John Carlow by one stroke in the run for low net honors.

Laurie Kerr hiding a smile behind his freckles after defeating Bert Saxon 2 and 1 in the semifinals of the club championship at Colwood. Kerr, who carded a one-over-par 71 in the process, now tackles the winner of Saturday's battle between George Andrews and Vic Painter.

Bob Dailin wondering what happened to the rest of the field when he was told his net 75 was good enough to give him the Uplands "B" championship Sunday. J. J. Corrin took the runner-up prize with a net 76.

Phyllis Colbert and G. W. Hall accepting the Kirkham brooches and Leo Derman's word that their net 57 was the lowest score ever recorded in a mixed greensome event at Gorge Vale. Nobody came close to their card, 84-27-57. Mrs. Lloyd Cann and Skip Bryan were the gross winners, 87.

Dave Radford and George Brebner stuffing turkeys in the back seat after winning the first of the weekly winter par competitions at Oak Bay.

Mrs. R. Hawksworth and Harry Young admiring the Gibson Cup after winning the "family day" feature at Victoria Club. Their net 69 was 2½ strokes better than Mr. and Mrs. W. A. R. Hadley. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barry captured low gross honors in the mixed two-ball event with an 85, two strokes up on Dr. Bigelow and Mrs. C. Chapman.

Varsity Oarsmen Hunt for Coach

By LES MILLEN

Victoria University's rugby season opened on a winning note when Vikings first team chalked up a 25-0 victory over Oak Bay Wanderers.

Team captain Gray Eaton led the scoring with two tries, and teammates Basset, Woods, McWhirter, Bevin and Chamberlain each had one try. Woods and Craig Andrews made the only two conversions.

This season's team is basically the same as last year's, with perhaps a little more weight in the forward line. Players to watch in this season's action will be Eaton, Andrews and Adam Ustik.

Rugby this Saturday will see the Viking "A" playing the "B" team which should offer some sort of guide as to the potential of the first team, coached by Campbell Forbes.

New on the campus scene this year, but coming up fast, is the Rowing Club. Some 50 prospective rowers turned out to the first meeting last week and plans are being made ready for the season.

Led by president John Carson, the varsity crew will probably use Elk Lake as their scene of operations. Shells have been obtained through the Victoria Rowing Club.

The rowers are still in need of a coach, but the club executive is confident of obtaining one in time to get a team on the water within a few weeks. No opposing teams have been unearthed as yet, but opposition will probably be available by the time the eight is ready to face some competition.

The Rowing Club is sponsored by Professor Tony Emery.

More and more new sports are raising their heads this year as the expansion of student population becomes more obvious. Enough people are interested in an ice hockey team to form at least one team.

Another newcomer is a proposed fencing club, for which some 50 students have signed up. Posters recruiting more new members advise that a good coach is available.

Five runners from the university will enter the 2.8-mile cross-country run on Friday to start on the track at Victoria High School. Eric Carlson and Palle Jensen will be Vikings to watch in that race. Running with them will be Stu Brown, Brian McDonald and Bruce Hawkes.

On the distaff side, University girls scored a solid 11-0 win in grass hockey over the Grasshoppers. The second team balanced it off with an 11-0 loss to the Mariners.

Women's basketball is still in the throes of being organized, with hopes that it will enter Victoria Senior Women's League. Coach will be Jim Wilson, a former Viking star.

Fred Zabriskie, New York lawyer who had filed a $1,000,000 suit for damages on behalf of Schoepner against Feature Sports for delaying the fight, said he feels sure "the suit will be withdrawn if a settlement on the matter can be reached—and it looks now as though it very well may be."

TIME OUT!

"Okay! Now go scare up the game!"

Double Win For Taylor At Western

Dick Varley and Ray Pottinger, a pair of popular veterans, and rookie Mike Taylor carted off major laurels victories in a mixed car racing program at Western Speedway on Thanksgiving Day.

The holiday meet attracted a turnout of 35 cars—largest of the year—and included races for Indianapolis-style sprinters, stock cars and road stocks.

Taylor won the first heat and the main event for road stocks while Bill Houck took the trophy dash. Pottinger scored first in both the first heat and trophy dash for sprint cars, but couldn't match Ed Kosteniuk's pace in the main event.

Varley won the main event, Bob Mawie the trophy dash, and Bill Foster the fast heat for stock cars.

STILL HOLDING GOOD TICKETS?

Punters still holding winning mutual tickets from the 1960 Sandown Park race meeting, which ended Monday, must take or send the tickets to Vancouver in order to collect on their wagers, track officials have announced.

Mutuel tickets may be redeemed by mailing or presenting to Ascot Jockey Club, 535 West Georgia, Vancouver.

TRACK IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED

New Ferries Helped Sandown Mutuel Play

By HAL MALONE

The embers have all but cooled on the 1960 racing season at Sandown Park. Before they are cremated, the opportunity to comment on the deceased meeting should not be allowed to pass.

A year ago it was said here, that before another season came along, certain improvements should be made. Primarily they consisted of: an overweight board, a covered paddock, a jockeys' room attached to the paddock, so the little men wouldn't have to stroll through the crowd like lost sheep, and a covering over the front of the grandstand.

Patrons at Sandown this year will be aware of the opinion of track operator Mr. Bill Randall had of the suggested improvements. His inertia notwithstanding, the suggestions are repeated. Their appearance would show the patrons that Mr. Randall is interested in making the plant a more attractive place in which to spend money.

It is true that the 1959 mutuel play of $820,000, representing a slight decrease over 1958, would not encourage the spending of fat sums on track renovations. Last Saturday it was so bad that persons coming to Sidney had to wait for the third ferry after arriving at Tsawwassen for the first ferry. Bobby Randall, formerly a partner in Sandown, put it this way: "There was just no way to get here. TCA was filled. My wife and I made it but only after chartering a seaplane and landing at Pat Bay."

Track Conditions Interest Bettors

If Mr. Randall is pondering improvements to Sandown (which, incidentally, he might rename it Sandown Paradise after totalling the 1960 handle), he could consider these points:

1. A small clubhouse to the right of the grandstand, including a tearoom. The latter occupies room in the grandstand which could on heavy betting days be put to excellent use as a mezzanine betting ring.

2. A notice on the odds-board of track conditions. The need for this was quite apparent over the final weekend. Rain followed by drying winds left many scholars in doubt as to the surface. When you have a number of horses who thrive or various types of soft track, this is highly important.

SPEED WINS RACES... and the statistics prove it... Of the 103 winners 60 went to the front and stayed there.

Post positions are extremely important, too, at a track like Sandown with its treacherously sharp first turn and short stretch... The evidence: The rail produced the most winners—235 from No. 2 came 17; from No. 3 and 4—15 each. After that it tailed off... from No. 5—six winners; from HIGHLIGHTS... best horse at the meeting—Severance... It took him a year to "grow up" but when maturity arrived nobody could touch him although Prince Alfred, displaying more gameness than it was believed he had, gave it a mighty try in the final handicap.

Most improved horse: Many Ways. This richly-bred Kentucky filly finally shed her reticence to lead and last, posted three consecutive successes... She ran "a hole in the wind" at Vancouver this year, couldn't beat her shadow all summer before developing into a silky-smooth runner at Sandown.

Best jockey: Jimmy Broomfield. When the patrons begin to plunge on a rider no matter the quality of his steed then that boy deserves to be called "the best." He took a spill in a sea of mud, came up laughing and went right on winning to prove that when they handed out courage he wasn't shortchanged.

SHOWED CLASS

Two other riding performances merit mention... There was Gordon Atkins, 45 (a conservative estimate), wrinkled, making a comeback after 10 years out of the saddle... An easterner, he once rode with good boys like Don Meade and Wayne Wright before he nearly guzzled himself into oblivion... No longer a chicken—he showed some classic touches at times... Then there was Charley Ulrich... A pleasant little fellow he began riding with one hand on the reins and the other on his insurance policy... A spill and rain made him more cautious than was necessary and a liability to his agent... Few noticed it but Ulrich didn't have a mount on the final day.

Best announcer: Jack Short. You fault this fellow and you won't have a supporter... His tonsils deliver it fresh and good-like a caller should.

Best bet: That there will be racing at Sandown in '61.

Drag Racers Ponder Real Stock Question

What is or isn't stock was the main topic of conversation at the Quarter Milers' drag racing Sunday.

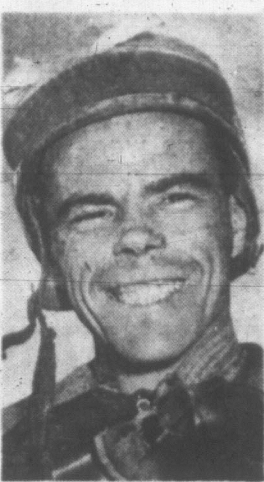

Cars from Victoria and up to the 1958 Buick, and John Culliford took the stock "D" division in a 1950 Ford.

Gas class "B" section was won by Neil Mandryk, Parksville, in an Oldsmobile engine. Port Alberni won the gas class "C" in an Oldsmobile engine. 1955 Mercury.

Specials and dragsters alike failed to keep up with Inglin, whose car is the last word in factory optional equipment to make the scenery move by briskly.

Inglin won class "A" stock and Gordon Stuart won the altered division with a Buick-powered model T Ford.

Barry Thomson of Port Alberni won the stock "B" class

Flames Slay Racehorses

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP)—At least 12 race horses were killed Sunday night in a fire which destroyed two stables at Narragansett Park.

When the fire was brought under control, some 50 animals, many burned, wandered about the grounds.

The most valuable horse known to have been at the track, April Skies, survived. Jerry Derezio of Needham, Mass., purchased the horse for $50,000 a few days ago.

At the height of the fire, some 300 of the more than 1,100 horses at the track were turned loose.

James, Stewart Chalk Up Gains In Scoring Race

(By Canadian Press)

The spotlight on the individual scoring races in Canada's two pro football leagues centred on the runnersup.

Winnipeg's Gerry James came up with 17 points Monday as Blue Bombers trounced Saskatchewan 48-7 to take second in the Western Conference race while Ottawa's Ron Stewart grabbed the same spot in the Big Four.

Stewart's four touchdowns raised his point total of 84, six fewer than leading George Dixon of Montreal.

The leaders:

WESTERN CONFERENCE	TD	C	FG	S	Pts.
Parker, Edmonton	8	17	3	3	95
James, Winnipeg	6	22	3	4	77
Bright, Edmonton	12	6	0	0	72

Stewards Suspend Willie Shoemaker

NEW YORK (AP)—Stewards at Belmont Park suspended jockey Willie Shoemaker for 10 days Monday effective through Oct. 21 for careless riding aboard Scotland in the fifth race Saturday.

Scotland finished first but was placed second for interfering with Wolfgram, who came home second but was awarded first.

WRITERS IN ACCORD—HABS WILL DO IT AGAIN

MONTREAL (UPI)—A pre-season poll disclosed today Montreal Canadiens were the unanimous choice of 18 writers in the six National Hockey League cities to win the title for a sixth consecutive season.

Chicago was picked second by 17 of the writers, and 16 picked Toronto to finish third.

Detroit was picked to beat out Boston and New York for the fourth and last Stanley Cup play-off spot.

No Trespassing... It's Lions' Lair!

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions signed a contract Tuesday that will keep professional football rivals out of Vancouver at least for the next 2½ years.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union club signed a contract giving it exclusive professional football rights to Empire Stadium, owned by the city and operated by the Pacific National Exhibition, until the end of the 1962 season.

City financier Peter Graham had hoped to bring an American Football League franchise to Vancouver and to have a team next year. His plans hinged on the availability of a large stadium.

Directors of the PNE voted last week to give the Lions the contract, saying they did not feel the city could support two professional teams.

Mr. Graham said then he would try again in 1962.

'BOLD POLICY NEEDED'*Traffic Plan Gets Backing

The city engineering department's long-range downtown traffic and parking development plan received the "blessings" of city council public works committee.

Cluster Lights Must Go

The city public works committee Tuesday rejected a proposal by Mayor Percy Scourrah to retain cluster lights on main downtown streets.

The committee recommended again to city council the installation of modern mercury lighting throughout the central business district on the grounds of safety and economy.

Kenneth Reid, lighting superintendent, explained that relative darkness in mid-block areas of main streets where there are cluster lights, constitute a danger.

"The eye cannot adjust itself quickly enough and you can hit someone before you know it," he said.

The mayor suggested at council's last meeting that cluster lights be retained on Douglas from Queens to Belleville, on Government from Herald to Michigan and on Fort and Yates as far east as Cook.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow felt the cluster lights could be better used to illuminate a walk along the Gorge.

"They would look attractive there and would be in keeping with surroundings," he said.

Sign Law Gets More Study

City public works committee Tuesday got no nearer to reaching a decision as to whether to approve or reject a fourth draft of a proposed new sign bylaw.

Aldermen decided after a lengthy discussion to give the bylaw further study and to wait for a report from the city solicitor on legal aspects of the new restrictions.

"Let us proceed with caution," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow. "I am told that the new bylaw will cost merchants millions of dollars."

'EMOTIONAL'
The argument that the bylaw would prove costly to merchants was criticized by Roderick Clack, assistant engineer.

"It's an emotional argument," he said.
The committee was presented with a petition taken up by sign companies and signed by about 250 business proprietors. It opposed the fourth draft bylaw and asked that a committee of sign and advertising experts to help draft a "final bylaw."

Ald. Edgelow said the petition indicated a large number of businessmen are against the bylaw.

But city engineer James Garnett doubted if the petition was of any consequence.

'TD SIGN IT'
"Have you read it," he said. "I would have signed that bylaw. It does not say anything."

Ald. J. L. W. McLean noted that the petition requested the committee to do "exactly what has already been done."

Ald. Edgelow raised the point of whether it was really necessary to have a new bylaw.

"I haven't heard any ratepayers complain," he said. "Besides people like to come to the city to see the bright lights. Who started all this anyway?"

It will ask council to approve the program in principle, leaving the details of the plan or any revisions to be worked out by committees, traffic and engineering experts.

Council's approval of the plan in principle would permit the engineering department to plan improvements in Victoria's congested traffic lanes and alleviate growing parking problems.

The committee's decision followed a joint meeting with police officials and Downtown Business Association representatives.

The main points of the long-range program of immediate concern to the city engineer's department are:

1. The acquisition of key parking lots in downtown Victoria.

2. The extension of Blanshard Street to improve access to the city.

3. Government Street from Humboldt to Cormorant to be made into a one-way street. The rest of Government would remain a two-way street.

4. A financing plan to implement the program.

City engineer James Garnett and traffic engineer Norman Worsley told the committee lack of a council traffic improvement policy is seriously aggravating traffic and parking problems.

NO SOLUTION

"We want to know the direction to proceed so that we can plan ahead," said Mr. Garnett. "It's no use installing expensive traffic equipment and tearing it down in two years' time. This is an expensive way of doing things and it does not solve the problems."

Mr. Garnett called for a "bold" traffic policy.
Police Commissioner William Hamilton said the police department favored the program, except for a few minor changes. But, he said, the changes would be ironed out with the city engineer's department.

The Downtown Business Association asked for immediate action to implement the parking program of the traffic plan.
It was not prepared as yet to endorse the entire traffic program, but was ready to discuss it at a future meeting, it said.

PARKING BODY
The association recommended that a Victoria parking commission be formed for the purpose of selecting appropriate locations for parking lots.

Its other duties would be approving of lot development, the establishment of parking rates, and the general supervision of the downtown parking situation.

It suggested the commission consist of a councilman, a planner, a realtor, barrister and a businessman.

The association also called for the creation of a downtown parking corporation to improve, operate and manage the properties acquired by the new parking commission.

Profits would be used to help improve other acquired parking sites and eventually to help defray the annual levy needed to service the debentures.

MORE SITES
It also recommended that total meter revenue (about $140,000 annually) be utilized for the purpose of improving parking sites.

Ernie Peden, president, in a brief to the committee, said the proposed Victoria parking commission should have the power (including expropriation) to purchase additional properties for future parking needs.

Mass Hunt Undersea For Body

(Times News Services)
VANCOUVER—A mass underwater search for a missing Vancouver businessman is planned for Saturday.

The Sea Searchers Diving Club Tuesday asked for volunteer divers to help search in 50 feet of water off Stanley Park for the body of Daniel Renix who disappeared during a 1½-hour trip on his yacht between Vancouver Harbor and False Creek in the industrial area.

Renix left the harbor with a prospective buyer Sept. 29 and was never seen again. Homicide detectives said the yacht was tied up in False Creek 1½ hours later.

Truck Crushes Man

VANCOUVER—An autopsy has shown that a 55-year-old Chinese peddler was killed early Tuesday when crushed beneath the wheels of a truck backing down a lane.

Police had earlier thought that Harry Chew might have died of a heart attack shortly before the mishap.

Chew was Vancouver's 24th traffic fatality of the year.

Recount Under Way

HOPE—Judicial recount of the Sept. 12 British Columbia election ballots in Yale constituency started Tuesday and was to continue today.

The counting of all ballots cast on election day was completed before county court judge E. K. Grimmett of New Westminster by Monday night. Today advance, absentee and other ballots would be counted.

CCF'er Evan McDougall was 25 votes behind Social Creditor Irvine Corbett in the final counting after the election.

Sugar From Africa

VANCOUVER—The British freighter Weybridge has arrived here with 7,600 tons of South African sugar. It is the first such shipment to arrive in Vancouver since before the war. In the future, about three cargoes a year will be imported.

Inquest Disrupted

VANCOUVER—The inquest into the death of miner Louis Battaglia was disrupted again Tuesday when a heated argument broke out between two lawyers.

Coroner Glen McDonald criticized both men and ordered an adjournment because "all parties have not co-operated in my honest efforts to inquire into the death of this 73-year-old Italian immigrant."

Unemployment Up

VERNON—Unemployment here is slightly higher than at the same time last year, figures released by the National Employment Service show. Last week 638 were unemployed compared with 560 in the same week of 1959.

Coroner's Jury

VANCOUVER—A coroner's jury recommended Tuesday that an investigation be made into the possibility of setting up regulations and control over the use of skindiving equipment.

The jury found that David Thiesen, 24, drowned in suburban West Vancouver during the weekend as a result of his own inexperience and ruled the death accidental.

Thiesen died of air embolism when he tried to surface too quickly from a deep dive.

Appeal Opens

VANCOUVER—The appeal of Larry Popoff, 26, of Brilliant, B.C., against a conviction of murder opened here Tuesday.

Popoff was found guilty in Nelson Assize early this year of the beating death of Clarence Douglas-Garrett near Trail. He was sentenced to be hanged.

Popoff's grounds for appeal include a contention that there was no evidence to show that he intended to kill Garrett and that the trial judge misdirected the jury on certain points.

Get-Rich-Quick Czechs Convicted

PRAGUE (AP)—A Prague people's court has confirmed sentences handed down last August to more than 80 Czech sportsmen convicted of "influencing the results of the sports pool through fraudulent speculations," the official Czech news agency Ceteka reported Tuesday.

The agency said honored master of sports and hockey player Jiri Hanzl, a wrestler named Soucek and the plot organizers, named Plaminek and Goha, were sentenced to prison terms ranging from one to six years.

Rambler '61 ...first with a compact for every purpose

The compact car concept, long pioneered by Rambler, has really taken hold. We know that compact is the shape of cars to come—and are backing our belief by being the only manufacturer to offer a complete line of compacts.

We do not believe in change for the sake of change. At Rambler, research and development never stop. But only after advance features have been thoroughly tested and proved, do we allow them to be incorporated in the cars we sell.

An automobile is a substantial investment, that is why we build cars that keep their value—need the minimum in maintenance—and are reliable. And at Rambler reliability is built in all along the line, not "inspected in" afterwards. That's why every '61 Rambler model is backed by a warranty that lasts for 12,000 miles or 12 months.

THE ALL-NEW RAMBLER AMERICAN

The Rambler American has been completely restyled for 1961, and every beautiful line tempts you with its spirit of adventure. Look closely at its matchless finish and handsome interior, and you'll wonder what it would cost to own this perfect gem of a car—because you will want to own it. The price? No more than any other car in the low-priced compact class.

And the savings don't stop at price . . . the Rambler American is still the same exciting performer—winner of every economy test in which it has been entered.

THE RAMBLER CLASSIC

This car, which now bears the proud name "Classic", has set the trend for the whole industry with a unique combination of exclusive features and realistic price.

A new die-cast 6 cylinder aluminum engine*, proven over 2,000,000 grueling miles, gives it improved economy, performance and handling characteristics. The conventional Classic V-8 is optional at extra cost. The new acoustic Fiberglass ceiling, standard on all models, reduces engine, road-and-wind noise to a degree that must be experienced first hand to be appreciated.

If ever there was a car to bridge the gap between your taste and your budget, the Rambler Classic is it.

THE LUXURIOUS AMBASSADOR BY RAMBLER

The Ambassador will act as your calling card in any company . . . it presents you as a connoisseur.

Slide behind the wheel of the Ambassador and you have everything you ever wanted in car luxury. There is room inside to relax in complete comfort, but outside dimensions are compact, giving you the handling ease you would expect to find only in a smaller car. You glide along in smooth luxury, with never a whisper from the powerful, responsive V8 engine—never a sound from the road.

Try it yourself . . . the ultimate in compact cars . . . Ambassador by Rambler.

*Standard on all "Classic" Custom models, optional at extra cost on Super and Deluxe models.

NEW YORK—Audrey Hepburn patted my hand gently and said, "There, there, now."

I'd spoken up—again—for my campaign for purer womanhood on stage and screen. I object to such a nice girl playing a loose female in "Breakfast at Tiffany's," now being filmed here.

"You'll be astonished at how decent I am as 'Holly Golightly,'" Miss Hepburn said.

"She's a kooky, dizzy girl who puts out a rather jazzy line. She picks up her rent and meals mysteriously. I wouldn't be like her, I'd probably get a job—and be dull."

In the Truman Capote novel, Holly's male escort gives her $50 to tip the ladies' room attendant at 21—we just know she comes out $49 ahead.

"That's out of the script!" Audrey coolly announced across the top of a glass of vermouth, in the Pierre Grill.

"But you're all playing these parts and it'll ruin the world and, anyway, you really wouldn't be like that," I said.

"I wouldn't be a nun, and I played that," she said.

"It's a cliche," she continued. "You can only sell what the public's interested in. That's what it wants today."

Audrey whipped out her baby pictures and began babbling of missing Mel Ferrer (out in Hollywood) and being back in Switzerland for Christmas. Honeyed phrases and pretty smiles defeated me. My campaign for purer women characters on stage and screen had run afoul of... women.

Famed Rudy the Barber hurt his hand in a fall, cancelled dates to trim "Coma," Johnnie Ray and Mayor Wagner... Jo Ann Campbell bustled up with Bobby Darin, but she still tells interviewers he's her favorite performer.

Comic Shelley Berman taped a Person-to-Person TV'er... "Inherit the Wind" may not be shown in Tennessee, where it's laid; the law against teaching evolution is still on the books there. "Muste Man" has passed the $10,000,000 gross mark... Rosemary Clooney's Waldorf audience has included King Hussein (twice) and the President of Uruguay.

EARL'S PEARLS: In Texas an underprivileged child is the kid who has only one of everything.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A B'way character tells friends he has just two weeks to live: "Then my wife will be back from her vacation."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Women have a better sense of hearing than men. Some married women can even hear ashes dropping on the rug.

Jack Gifford (of "Tenth Man") says he eats in a restaurant so homelike, he winds up washing the dishes... That's Earl, brother.

Andy Picks Question From Fairfield Girl

Lynda Wallace, 13, of 1637 Fairfield Road, has won a fine inflatable globe for having a question accepted for the "Ask Andy" column which appears on this page today.

Her question on magnifying glasses is one of dozens which have won prizes for Victoria youngsters who read the popular science feature which appears daily except Saturday in the Times.

Lynda was born in Victoria attended Margaret Jenkins School, and now is in grade 8 at Central Junior High School.

With a background of five years of piano playing and three years on the clarinet, the latter inspired by the progressive band membership system in Victoria, she now is a member of the Central School band.

She belongs to the Victoria Musical Art Society, and attends Sunday School at Victoria Gospel Hall.

Lynda also is an experienced camper, and has made several long tenting trips with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, and her younger sister, Maureen.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions be selected to answer worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 30-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Lynda Wallace, aged 13, of Victoria, B.C., for her question:

Can a Magnifying Glass Make the Sun Hotter?

The magnifier is a little dome of glass. The sunbeams, coming down from the sun in straight lines, strike this glassy dome at various angles. The curved surface bends these rays inward. The rays are pointed from the large outer surface of the curve to a smaller area. In this way they are concentrated or focused on a smaller area.

Sunbeams coming down straight from the sun are not hot enough to burn a sheet of paper. But when a number of these rays are gathered together, they become hotter. This happens when they are slanted together, or focused through a magnifying glass. On a sunny day, a magnifying glass held over a sheet of paper may focus enough heat to start a fire.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to David Dunaway, age 13, of West Somerset, Ky., for his question:

Stomach Has Four Chambers

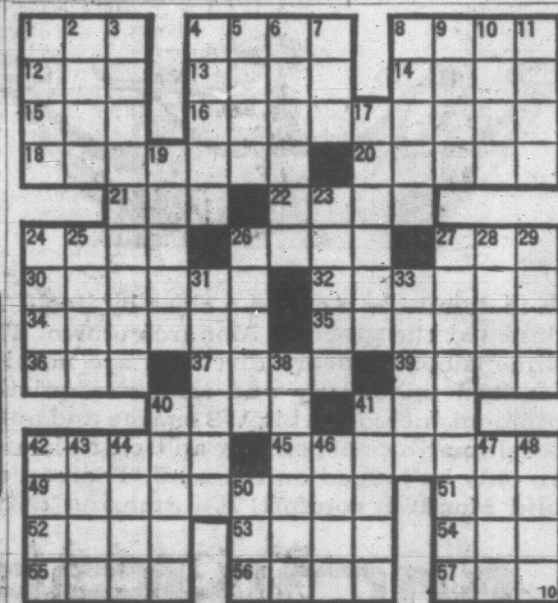

A cow's stomach is divided into compartments. She dines by taking a mouthful of hay or grass into her mouth where it is rolled loosely into a ball and swallowed whole. This gobbled food passes down into a compartment of the stomach called the rumen. One mouthful follows another until this first chamber is comfortably full.

Bossy now settles down to digest this gobbled meal. She gives a little hiccup and up from the rumen comes a damp ball of food. This is the cow's cud. It must be well chewed, then swallowed a second time. On the second trip down, the chewed cud passes to a different compartment of the stomach called the reticulum. When this bite is safely settled, Bossy gives another hiccup and up comes another cud to be chewed and sent down on its way for proper digestion. Bit by bit the cud is being removed from the rumen.

What exactly is a cow's cud? Bossy comes from a long line of grass-eating ancestors. Her distant relatives were eating grass long before there were any human beings in the world. This, of course, was before Bossy became a domesticated animal. In those far-off days, a cow had to fend for herself. She had to find grass and keep out of the way of her enemies.

A grass-eating animal must spend many hours feeding, during which time she is out on the open. All this time, she must be looking up for hungry meat-eaters and be ready to run. Bossy's remote ancestors developed special stomachs to make this difficult task easier. They learned to grab a hasty meal, swallow it whole and go off to some secluded spot to digest it in safety. Bossy no longer has to fend for herself. But she still has the special stomach developed by her ancestors.

All cattle, wild or domesticated, have this type of stomach and all of them chew the cud. Deer and other hoofed grazers also chew the cud. In the wild, this trick of being able to eat in haste and digest at leisure is a great life saver to the grass-eating animals. But our pampered Bossy does not need all these precautions and we wonder why she still goes to so much trouble to digest her food. The answer is in her special stomach. For, when nature develops such a specialized organ in an animal, that animal cannot return to a more simple organ. So long as there are cows, then, they will chew the cud.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

School Costs 'Unrealistic'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Education Minister Peterson told British Columbia school trustees Tuesday that they can't spend public money as though they had been left a fortune by a rich uncle.

Trustees Hit Pay Demands By Teachers

VANCOUVER (CP)—The salary committee chairman of the B.C. School Trustees' Association said here Tuesday "there is increased solidarity" among trustees against salary increases in 1961.

James Dingwall of Cloverdale said at the annual convention of the association: "We feel salaries are equitable and fair under present economic conditions. Teachers' demands in some places are outrageous."

B.C.'s 11,000 teachers seek salary increases ranging from 5 to 17 per cent. However, the trustees are working toward a hold-the-line policy.

Salary proposals have been outlined by teachers in 22 out of 82 school districts.

Teachers received an average pay increase of 6.34 per cent for 1960. Total salary bills paid by school boards in 1960 will be $68,000,000.

Taxi Men Fined For Bootlegging

Two taxi men each were fined $300 or three months in jail when they were found guilty in city police court Tuesday of keeping liquor for sale.

Both pleaded not guilty to the joint charge laid Sept. 25 when police seized a number of bottles of whisky and gin from them.

The accused were Thomas Edward Sullivan, 1274 Centre, and James Vernon Hitchen, 2605 Douglas, both of Island Taxi.

Egyptian cotton farmers produced their second largest recorded crop in 1960, despite a 7.6 per cent drop in acreage.

Speaking at the School Trustees Association convention here, he said:

"Our school costs in B.C. have been rising at an alarming rate. Suggestions that the provincial government should assume full costs of the most expensive school system in Canada are just unrealistic and impractical."

He said that in deciding what could be spent on education, the general economic conditions of the country must be considered.

"We must be sure we're getting good value for every dollar we spend," he said.

"I suppose we all suffer from a tendency to keep up with the Joneses but in education this can be very expensive."

He added that the perfect formula for financing of education costs has not yet been devised. "I've never suggested that I'm completely satisfied with the formula by which schools are financed," he said.

PHYSICAL FITNESS

The trustees passed a resolution asking the provincial government to allocate more money to physical education and athletics in schools.

It also asked for a campaign to educate the public on the value of better health and physical fitness "as a means of enriching life."

To back up the proposals the resolution cited:

Increasing criticism of fitness and athletic ability of Canadian youth;

Increasing emphasis on professional sports which create more spectators and fewer participants in games;

Increasing automation which leads to lower standards of fitness and athletic ability.

DELETED POOLS

The trustees deleted from the resolution a proposal that the government direct financial aid to improved playing fields, gymnasiums, swimming pools, exercise equipment and coaches.

clause saying that one aim They also struck out a would be to raise Canada's status in international competitions.

Other resolutions proposed: Extra provincial grants to cover cost of more teachers to cope with integration of native Indians into all schools;

More schools for retarded children;

A faculty of dentistry at the University of B.C. to meet the "steadily worsening" shortage of dentists.

EDUCATION ASSOCIATION 'MIS-NAMED'

WINNIPEG (CP)—School trustee Dr. Andrew Moore said Tuesday night the Canadian Educational Association is misnamed and is in reality a "company union for ministers of education and departments of education."

He said the association is "potent" and "runs the show" in Canada. Dr. Moore said that instead of a meeting place for ministers and departments of education, the CEA should be a more "over-all body."

He was commenting on a previous remark by another trustee, Andrew Robertson, that deputy ministers at the association meetings were usually afraid to say anything without official approval of their superiors.

TUNKU ABDUL RAHMAN
... 7-day stay

Malayan Premier To Visit Canada

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—Malayan Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman will spend seven days in Canada on the first stage of his official visit to North America later this month.

A government statement today said Rahman will arrive in Montreal from Paris next Wednesday and will immediately be flown to Ottawa where he will stay three days.

On Oct. 20, Rahman will confer with Diefenbaker and cabinet members. On Oct. 22, he will fly to Arvida, Que., to visit an aluminum factory.

Eloquent Elsa Just Misses

BY AUDREY JOHNSON

The current epidemic infecting show biz, it seems, is the solo performer bug.

Within 24 months we have had, in this remote area, Anna Russell doing music, Emlyn Williams doing Dylan Thomas, Hal Holbrook doing Twain, Charles Laughton doing readings and Joyce Grenfell doing herself.

Latest in the stream came Tuesday night when the Royal Theatre stage was host to Mrs. Charles Laughton—Elsa Lanchester—in a program of recollections and enthusiasms.

SHE IS TOPS

There is no doubt about it; Elsa is among the most bewitching, piquant and salty personalities ever to visit us.

She is a true daughter of the British music hall, taking possession of the audience the moment she steps on stage; establishing an easy familiarity, unabashed in projecting a suggestive phrase or a lewd glance.

Her songs were the earthy, humorous songs of the London streets and pubs and the music hall stage. Her reminis-cences and comments were lively and droll though seldom sharp or pungent.

One hoped for more penetrating witticisms like her comment on Britain's famed humorist and parliamentarian, Sir A. P. Herbert (who wrote one of her numbers): "In England you could only get a divorce for unfaithfulness. A. P. Herbert found some other ways so they made him a knight."

ALL-OUT

Elsa used everything—her mop of copper hair, eloquent arms and hands, shapely legs, roguish eyes—plus a startling array of costume changes—but let's face it: what might have been enough in the intimate surroundings of a night club was not sufficiently versatile for two hours in the Royal Theatre.

There were highlights I'm glad I didn't miss just the same. No pussy cat will ever look quite the same to me since seeing her human manifestation of feline personality in "Cat's Meat."

NEEDED BOOSTER

But the second half of the program needed a booster shot. It didn't get it and consequently remained below the level of the first half.

Miss Lanchester's two pianists gave her splendid support with some most effective solo and two-piano interludes and bits of business. In particular, Ray Henderson who is her musical director and arranger, emerged as a highly gifted young man.

The new 1961 Monarch is definitely a car in a class by itself. The styling is unique as you can tell by a glance at the graceful Monarch crown. There's no excess bulk outside, yet interior dimensions in every direction are nothing short of spacious. The luxury of the standard upholstery and trim are quietly impressive. Other standard Monarch equipment includes a big V-8 engine and automatic transmission. Certain features like cushion-link suspension and extra-heavy insulation against sound and weather can only be judged on the road. There, a single ride brings out all the qualities of solid Monarch comfort. It's amazing that the price is so low.

THE MACKENZIE KING RECORD

His Prayer Was Needed

By J. W. PICKERSGILL
(Seventh of a Series)

The period which intervened between the conclusion of the destroyer-bases deal in September, 1940, and the Nazi attack on Yugoslavia and Greece on April 6, 1941, was one of many anxieties, both external and domestic, for Mackenzie King.

But he was overjoyed by Roosevelt's great victory in the presidential election on Nov. 5, and correspondingly more optimistic. "This," he wrote on Nov. 6, "clears both the air and the skies, and makes possible a certainty of assistance to Britain and ourselves which could not possibly have come otherwise, and certainly not without considerable delays."

Fresh Heart

"Meanwhile, the British will be given fresh heart, and the enemy will be correspondingly depressed. It means we have the United States with us for the next four years, already committed to give all aid possible to Britain. This should mean, in the end, the certain defeat of Germany and Italy."

While he worried about the war spreading to the Pacific, Mackenzie King did not lose sight of the war against Germany. He had agreed, rather reluctantly, that Ralston and Howe should visit Britain to make sure that the Canadian war program for 1941 would dovetail with the British.

Ralston left Ottawa on Nov. 19, while Parliament was still sitting. Mackenzie King felt that it was adding to his own burden to let Ralston go, and noted in his diary: "He is the most helpful of all the colleagues on the war effort."

Howe left Ottawa on Dec. 4. He was accompanied by three leading business men, Gordon Scott of Montreal, E. P. Taylor of Toronto and W. C. Woodward of Vancouver, all of whom were then associated with the department of munitions and supply.

Ship Hit

They were to travel by ship. After seeing Howe off at the railway station, Mackenzie King wrote: "I pray he and Ralston will get through all right and return in safety." The prayer was needed, for on Dec. 14 Mackenzie King had a telephone call from Angus Macdonald, who asked if he had had any news of Howe's ship.

Mackenzie King said at once "that I prayed that nothing had happened to Howe. He then told me that the ship had been hit, but that they had not received any word as to what more had actually taken place."

"I was relieved a little to hear that it was off the coast of Scotland, about 200 miles. I said to Macdonald that I thought, in those circumstances, it might well be that his life would be saved; there would at least be a chance of rescue in lifeboats."

They both agreed it would be inadvisable to say anything to anyone about this news until further word came. Mackenzie King recalled that he had spoken to Howe of the risks involved in the journey and that Howe had spoken "of wishing to know the men interested in munition work, supplies, etc. That it would help him in his negotiations."

... a certain irony

"I agreed entirely with that. I also was anxious to have him get the wider acquaintance and secure the added authority which knowing Churchill and association with British ministers would give him."

"At this moment of dictation, I am far from despairing for his life though I believe, if spared, it will be as a result of rescue at sea a perfectly terrible experience."

'Most Valuable'

He added that "Ralston and Howe are two most valuable men in our war effort."

"In some ways, I would have preferred that only one at a time should have been away. There is a certain irony in the situation that Howe, himself, usually prefers to travel by plane and was taking this method to rest."

Just after 7 that evening (December 14) Mackenzie King was told that the radio news had carried a flash from New York that Howe had been saved. He "immediately rang up Mrs. Howe and gave her this word. It seemed as though she had been sitting at the phone so quickly did she answer the call in person."

"She seemed tremendously relieved. Immediately asked about the other men. I told her I imagined that they would all be safe. That I felt the report must be a correct one."

"She said that she thought if he (Howe) were saved, it meant that he had some special work to do. I told her that I was sure of that."

"I did not know what I personally could do without him. Indeed, through the day, I have been turning over in my mind possible men to take his post, but can think of no one available."

Actually the ship had sunk off the coast of Iceland and it was not until December 17, when Ralston telephoned Mackenzie King from London, that he received definite word about Howe's safety.

Tragic Mistake

The message Ralston had received from the Admiralty indicated the whole party had been saved and this information was given to their families. It was tragically wrong in the case of Gordon Scott. The news of Scott's drowning came next day from Howe himself and Mackenzie King had to pass it on to Scott's family and friends who were rejoicing at the word he had been saved.

Mackenzie King felt worried about the duration of the war and "whether Canada will be able to maintain the burden she is assuming is questionable. I feel, however, that the time may come when England will have to look to us to supply her needs for war material and that, to save the Empire itself, we must make every possible outlay."

At the War Committee meeting the next day (October 23) Mackenzie King expressed concern about the financial control of war expenditures and "took the position that we must be careful to view the war as one likely to last three or four years and not get the country in a position where there will be a financial panic or collapse before the war is over."

The following day (October 24) W. C. Clark, the deputy minister of finance, was invited to the War Committee to discuss the financing of the war program.

No Collapse

He was reassuring about the financial capacity of the country. Mackenzie King gathered that "national income will be expanding and enable, in Clark's opinion, further commitments to be met in so far as industrial capacity will permit, without occasioning any financial panic or collapse."

The military program for 1941 could not, of course, be settled finally until Ralston and Howe returned from England. Ralston arrived back on January 24. He told Mackenzie King "he felt the situation for Britain was much more terrible than people realized. That he had come back, he would not say anglicized, but filled with more admiration for the people of England than

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats... actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

People want to see newspaper advertising. One of the reasons for this is its usefulness to them.

In a survey made by the Psychological Corporation, household heads were asked whether they consider newspaper or TV advertising most useful to them. A large majority—71% of the men, and 61% of the women interviewed, chose newspaper advertising as the most useful. By contrast, only 25% of the men and 34% of the women chose TV advertising.

This receptive attitude toward newspaper advertising is one reason why newspapers get more of the total advertising expenditures than any other medium. More, in fact, than television, magazines, radio and outdoor COMBINED.

... THE MACKENZIE KING RECORD

ever, and feeling that everything possible should be done to help win."

Ralston reported in detail on the military prospects for 1941 and Mackenzie King "was particularly interested in hearing him say that there had been no thought or desire to have Canadian troops go to Egypt... Also that there was no possibility of any attempt at invasion of Europe this year. Indeed the view Ralston came back with was that invasion of Europe at any time would be impossible until disintegration got under way in Europe...

"Ralston feels," he added
"that additional manpower is greatly needed in Britain despite Churchill's statement from Glasgow."

'Give Us Tools'

Churchill had visited Glasgow with Harry Hopkins on his return from Scapa Flow in January, where he had said farewell to Lord Halifax, and he had made a speech in which he indicated that war supplies not troops, were needed by Britain. This was the prelude to the famous phrase in a broadcast on February 9:

"Give us the tools and we will finish the job."

Mackenzie King noted that Ralston insisted that more troops were required "because of England parting with such large numbers of men to the other areas of conflict, for example, North Africa.... He is quite firm on the advisability on a four-months training, of fewer men in preference to the one-month general training. In this, I think, Ralston is right... He also is most anxious for a tank battalion to be across by May;

additional troops in the fall but no thought of a fourth division until 1942."

Howe returned to Ottawa on January 27, and had a long talk with Mackenzie King the same day. Mackenzie King was deeply impressed by what he said. "The story was anything but a bright one. The truth is that among those who are in the best position to judge, there is a strong feeling that it is very doubtful if Britain can win. She may not lose."
From what Howe gathers it will take at least five years to defeat Germany." Howe reported that "Churchill and the Government believe that without doubt there will be every attempt to invade England in the spring; that Hitler will not hesitate to sacrifice a million men in the Battle of Britain alone."

Best-Trained

He found Howe believed "that, without Canada, Brittain could not have won. Says Government speaks in the highest terms of Canada's war effort... Spoke of our Army being the best trained and equipped in England." Mackenzie King "felt that Howe had a truer picture of the situation than Ralston. What he said reminded me of much of the outlook which Rogers had on his return."

After Ralston and Howe got back to Ottawa, the Government settled down to consider the war program for 1941 in the expectation that Hitler would attempt to invade Brittain in the spring of 1941 and that Japan would come into the war at the same time.

"The death of Skelton, in the very midst of the St. Lawrence negotiations, was an event which had a profound effect on Mackenzie King's life and work. He was in his office in the East Block in the early afternoon of January 28, when Arnold Heeney came in and said he had had "news, very bad news," and then told him that Skelton was dead.

Mackenzie King went to see Mrs. Skelton at once and then to the hospital to see Skelton's body. He wrote that Skelton's death "at the wheel of his own car in one of the busiest intersections of the city seems to me to have been a most fitting close to his life and his life's work."

"He was always very independent, self-reliant, liked to direct things himself, and to be in the thick of the tide, to share the life of the active and busy world and of the men on the street."

Later in the day Mackenzie King wrote that while he had realized "instantly all that it (Skelton's death) meant in the way of loss both personally and in connection with my work and to the country at this time... that it seemed part of the inevitable something of the discipline which one must not merely face but accept as part of a great purpose. I felt a complete control of my own feelings at the moment and throughout the day.

"No doubt the feeling that this might happen at any time helped to make the event, when it came, something which had been anticipated."

"There is no question, however, that so far as I am personally concerned, it is the most serious loss thus far sustained in my public life and work. However, there must be a purpose and, as I see it, it may be meant to cause me to rely more completely on my own judgment in making decisions, and to acquaint myself more meticulously with all that is happening so as to be able to meet each demand as it is occasioned."

"It is rather strange that in the course of this year, I have lost three men who, spiritually, were in a way closer to myself than any other, Lord Tweedsmuir, Rogers and Skelton."

Real Helper

"Each of them was a real helper as well as companion in my work. Someone to lean upon as a real support. What I valued most in each case was their sterling rectitude and disinterested purpose. I could count on them all for backing me up in maintaining the right course. No one of the three was strong physically, all had to contend with lessening physical powers but each gained greater strength intellectually. I believe all three are working together today influencing thought and action in this world."

At Skelton's funeral on Jan.
30, Mackenzie King was "deeply impressed with the appearance of Skelton's face in death.
It bore a truly noble expression and had the look of a man who could face kings and the world with a sense of being absolutely of the chivalry of God."

The following day (January 31) he wrote that both Skelton and Norman Rogers "attempted to do far too much. They took on excess loads. Both had the highest sense of duty, but that does not excuse using judgment in all things."

"I am positive I would have been in my grave before this, if I had not resolutely gone in for the rest I have, and declined public appearances one after the other, or avoided trying to gain too much in the way of power for myself."

"On the other hand, I think I have been tremendously at fault in not concentrating more on work and perhaps mastering more myself, and trusting too greatly to the outside aides. I wish, too, I had the unselfishness and selflessness which characterized so strongly both Rogers and Skelton."

'I'll Miss Him'

On February 6, he wrote in his diary again on this theme:
"I can see one of the effects of Skelton's passing will be to make me express my own views much more strongly.
Indeed, in that particular, I feel in a way certain relief from pressure that has been constantly exerted to avoid expression particularly in some lines. That, however, I was glad to have him as a guide, but there are times when it was almost too strongly exerted to the extent of unduly influencing government policy."

However, that good far outweighed any effect of limitations in other directions.
There was a fine sense of security with Skelton at hand.
I shall miss him particularly in not having one, outside the cabinet, with whom I can talk over matters generally."

No one ever completely took Skelton's place, although Norman Robertson who succeeded him as Under Secretary of State for External Affairs quickly gained and retained a greater measure of Mackenzie King's confidence than any other adviser of the closing years of his life.

Although this first part of the session had gone well for the government and the debate on the Address had been disposed of, Mackenzie King began to show signs of depression as the date approached for the resumption of the session in February, 1941.

Lapointe, Cardin, and Ralston were all unwell and Mackenzie King particularly missed Lapointe and Ralston from the cabinet meetings. Moreover the Conservative press was reviving the campaign for a National Government.

More Difficult

Mackenzie King himself felt the the Ministry needed strengthening, but wrote, on Feb. 6, that he could not "see how the Cabinet can be strengthened without making the whole situation more difficult... Skelton's death removes the one sure support that I had in everything..."

"It remains to be seen what deferred reactions will come from Howe's experience and the heavy load he has carried.
Already too much is hanging around his shoulders."

On February 11, Power spoke to him "about the need of reorganization of the cabinet... I told him I had also been considering possibilities
... but intend, before taking any step, to see that names are publicly canvassed by asking the Opposition and the press to name the supermen that they wish to have taken in, to be sure that they will be prepared to accept, and also that they can be elected, and would be of more service in parliament than they would in their present positions or in some administrative post."

Personal Tragedy

"It is in times like this that I miss Skelton very much. It is going to be very difficult carrying on without him, largely because I have no one that was so completely a confident with whom to exchange views and confidences."

Mackenzie King spoke to the cabinet about the personal strain and fatigue he was suf-

ISLAND DIGEST

Victoria Daily Times 23
WED., OCT. 12, 1960

Gifts Still Coming For Chinese

NANAIMO (CP)—Gifts continue to come in towards the rebuilding of this Vancouver Island city's Chinatown, almost destroyed in a fire on Sept. 30.

Fifty-four cartons of clothing for fire victims was received from Burnaby Boy Scouts during the weekend, while at the same time Chinese Benevolent Association spokesman, Foon Sien, of Vancouver, reported the provincial government is interested in rebuilding the area.

Sien said he will suggest to the Nanaimo Chinese fire relief and rebuilding committee that a home for elderly Chinese be included in rebuilding plans.

He said Education Minister Peterson had expressed interest in such a proposal and "if we continue receiving money from all parts of Canada, then we can ask the various governments to participate."

Meanwhile, a thief was working in opposition. A collection box and its contents were stolen from the fire scene Monday.

Rites Saturday For 17-Year Youbou Resident

DUNCAN—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Frederick Thomas Mater, 78, a resident of Youbou for 17 years who died Monday in King's Daughters' Hospital.

He was born in Brooke Township, Ont., and moved west in 1900. He homesteaded near Shellbrook, Sask., and also lived at Prince Albert, and at Saskatoon, before coming to B.C. in 1943.

He was a member for 28 years of the Eagles' Lodge Aerie Number 2108.

Surviving are the widow, Hazel Mary; three sons, Harold, Saskatoon, Frederick, Vancouver, John, Nanaimo; three daughters, Mrs. Emily Stonehouse, Calgary, Florence Egen, Blackfolds, Lily Kelly, Edmonton; seven sisters and two brothers in Ontario and Detroit, 14 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

President L. W. Dircks, of the Church of the Latter Day Saints, will officiate at services in the First Funeral Chapel at 1:30 p.m.

Labor Disputes Fall Off in B.C.

There have been only 12 labor disputes involving 854 employees in B.C. so far this year.

Last year at the end of 10 months there had been 31 disputes involving 33,402, according to Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

Mr. Wicks said 33,997 working days have been lost so far in 1960, compared with 1,414,334 lost days in 1959.

"Currently B.C. is completely free of strikes under provincial jurisdiction," he said.

TB-FREE COWS CANADA'S AIM

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal agriculture department hopes to declare Canada's 12,000,000 cattle free of tuberculosis within the next year, officials said today.

Only a portion of Alberta's Peace River country and Newfoundland remain to be cleaned up—involving about 29,000 head.

DUNCAN—"What is the Chamber of Commerce actually doing but writing letters?" asked Mayor J. T. Dobson at a meeting of Duncan city council Tuesday night.

He was referring to a request from Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce asking the city's help in erecting a $1,000 sign near the Trans-Canada Highway at the north approach to the city telling motorists where the city centre lies.

Mayor Dobson said he was curious to know why the chamber is "breaking down" by asking the city council to do its work.

He added that many businessmen would not be in agreement with a sign directing traffic away from stores on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Gilbert Thom, representing the Chamber of Commerce retail division, said: "In eight years nothing has been done to put a sign on the north approach."

Mayor Dobson said the city council will study the idea, but it will not be financed under the new business tax bylaw now in operation to help pay for the city-operated parking lot.

DUNCAN—Unemployed workers should get busy and "sell themselves to the public," the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce was told Tuesday during a discussion of the winter works program.

Norm Gourlay said that if a company had merchandise to sell, it put a salesman on the road.

"How many unemployed workers have ever come to your door and asked if you wanted any carpentry or other work done?" he asked. "These people, if they are skilled, surely have something to sell and many people would likely buy their services."

Instead of sponsoring a home renovation fair, the retail division will organize a program of publicity, including store window displays, to promote the winter works program and encourage the public to "do it now."

DUNCAN—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans, Cowichan Lake Road, will be at home this afternoon and evening to their relatives and friends on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Members of pioneer Vancouver Island families, they were married at Victoria in 1910. They made their first home at what is now Stratford's Crossing. For the past 35 years, they have lived at their present residence on Cowichan Lake Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans have three sons: Harold, Clarence and Robert, who with their families will be sharing in the family reunion.

DUNCAN—The Brae Road Gospel Chapel Sunday School and the Tansor Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association were granted permission by city council Tuesday to canvass on Halloween night for the United Nations' Save the Children Fund.

NORTH COWICHAN—Workmen's Compensation regulations as applied to volunteer firemen will be discussed by the four North Cowichan municipal fire chiefs, two fire wardens, the building inspector, the local assistant fire marshal and a member of the Compensation Board in the near future.

Fire chiefs of Chemainus, Crofton, Maple Bay and the south end (near Duncan) will be informed of the regulations and discuss possible changes.

Fire Chief F. P. Clackson requested Reeve D. C. Morton arrange the meeting when he found he was not covered by workmen's compensation when on duty as a volunteer fireman.

He is not an industrial employee but works as a dental technician and therefore is not covered. Only those firemen who are covered because of their type of employment are able to receive workmen's compensation.

CHEMAINUS—Funeral services were to be held today for William Freeman Brooke, 79, a retired carpenter of Henry Road, who died in Vancouver Sunday.

He was born in England.

Predeceased by his wife, Emma Ellen Brooke, in 1946, he is survived by one son, William Ernest Brooke, Vancouver; three daughters, Mrs. Olive Roe, Mrs. Ella Jackson, both of Chemainus, and Mrs. Kathleen McCraith, Alberni; 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services were scheduled at St. Michael's All Angels Anglican Church in Chemainus, Rev. J. G. Matthews officiating.

NANAIMO—William Purdy, of Nanaimo, was elected vice-president of the Anglican Young People's Association of British Columbia at a provincial conference held at Trail during the weekend.

Neil McMillan, also of Nanaimo, was named corresponding secretary.

Barbara Humphries, of Trail, was elected president of the association, and another Trail girl, Patricia Wood, recording secretary. Rev. William Lowe, of Burnaby, is chaplain and Gordon Luccock, Vancouver, treasurer.

LANGFORD—A public meeting being organized by Langford Recreation Commission for people interested in starting handicraft classes will be held in Langford fire hall tonight at 8—on Friday as stated in Tuesday's Times.

GOV'T TO PAY MORE FOR DOGFISH LIVERS

The federal government is again providing a subsidy on dogfish livers in an effort to control the stock of dogfish in British Columbia waters.

Fisheries Minister Maclean said $200,000 has been earmarked to cover special payments at the rate of 12 cents per pound for dogfish livers delivered to liver oil plants and collecting stations. This is an increase of two cents per pound over the subsidy paid last year. The program is effective immediately and will continue to the limit of the funds available to March 31, 1961.

Dogfish cause considerable damage to fishing gear, the minister pointed out. In some areas they have become so numerous that commercial fishing has been seriously curtailed. He also stated that dogfish interfere with the tidal water sport-fishing which has developed into a very valuable tourist resource.

TO SAVE CHUM

Fishing Closure Ordered

The Gulf of Georgia, Johnstone Straits and the Fraser River have been closed to commercial fishermen as an emergency measure to conserve the small run of chum salmon.

The closure was ordered Tuesday by W. R. Hourston, Pacific area director for the federal fisheries department.

He said the action was taken because early catches indicate a possible repetition of the 1956 chum cycle, the second poorest in recorded history.

Closure of the Gulf and Johnstone Straits will continue until 6 p.m. Sunday, reopening them for four days. Fraser River closure is in effect until next Monday, then closing again the following Wednesday.

North Island Ferry Urged By Ex-Mayor

NANAIMO—Annual meeting of Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association on Oct. 24 will hear former Victoria mayor Claude L. Harrison advocate a ferry route connecting the northern part of Vancouver Island with the mainland, similar to the Swartz Bay Tsawwassen link.

Other business at the meeting to be held in Nanaimo, will include a resolution asking the provincial government to include all motor vehicles, house trailers, house boats and powered pleasure boats among taxable property for school tax assessment purposes.

A spokesman said that at present a large number of B.C. residents not owning houses or real estate do not pay property taxes although they own motor vehicles, which are legally described as property.

Counter-Attack Faces Hunters At Deep Cove

Tragedy stalks Country Roads

Irresponsible hunters who defy shooting regulations in the Deep Cove area this season are likely to become the hunted.

The Deep Cove Property Owners' Association — fed up with repeated breaches in the regulations — have posted the area with 150 signs reading: "No shooting or hunting without owner's permission."

PATROLS

They are being supported in their campaign by RCMP and the provincial game department, who have promised to assist with plain clothes patrols if necessary.

A spokesman for the association said there is a long history of irresponsible acts in the area.

During the pheasant shooting season last year two children on the main highway en route to school received facial gun-shot wounds.

"You take your life in your hands to travel down some of the roads in the area during the season," he said.

JAIL TERMS

Regulations under the Game Act permit no entry to fenced property without the owner's permission. No person may fire from or across a roadway or from an auto. No pheasant shooting is permissible on Sundays.

Failure to observe these regulations is punishable by fines up to $500 or six months in jail. Removal or defacing signs marking private property is subject to the same scale of penalties.

Pheasant shooting starts on Saturday.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: George Leslie Wildman, 25, Work Point, $25; Edward H. today, Work Point, $25; Marion Brown, 2545 Killarney, $20, for driving without a licence.

Pero Bacica, 2645 Graham, $20 for failing to stop at a red light.

Enrico Perri, 1813 Quadra, $100 for driving while under suspension.

David Henry Cooke, 1321 Sussex, $10 for reversing direction when unsafe.

Claire Hummel, HMC Dockyard, $25 for violation of driving restriction and $20 for driving without a licence.

Ronald Alexander Milligan, 1425 Bay, $20 for failing to set brakes.

In city police court Tuesday: William M. Dukart, HMC Dockyard, $15 each for driving with inadequate service and hand brakes.

1,000 Visitors
Set One-Day
Gallery Record

A record one-day attendance of over 1,000 visitors was counted at the Art Gallery last Sunday, closing day of the Dutch and Flemish Old Masters exhibit.

Total attendance at the half-million dollar show was about 7,100, Curator Colin Graham announced.

This included conducted tours for 30 classes from local public and private schools.

Trained volunteers from the Women's Committee gave talks to 700 adults and children during the three-week show.

One of the most successful stages in the centennial wing of the Gallery.

'NAVY'S BEST FOR YOU' SAYS JUDGE

Naval seaman Roy Wells, 24, of HMCS New Glasgow, who was found guilty last week of unlawfully entering a dwelling at 1002 Johnson, was put on a year's probation today in city police court.

Wells, who had been drinking but in the opinion of police was not intoxicated, went through a window into the bedroom of a 15-year-old girl, where he dropped part of his uniform bearing name and regimental number.

Magistrate William Ostler suspended sentence on the basis of Wells' good service record and hoped the young man would not be discharged.

"The navy is the best thing for you," he said.

The court called Wells' act "foolish, stupid behavior. I think that you had sufficient to drink that your thinking processes were impaired."

Fond Farewell Given Pearkes

Maj. Gen. George Pearkes today wound up his affairs in Ottawa before flying to Victoria Thursday and his post as B.C.'s lieutenant-governor.

The chief of staff gave a dinner for Gen. Pearkes Tuesday night. The army has arranged a party for him to night.

Gen. Pearkes relinquished the job of defence minister Tuesday to take the B.C. post. He will be sworn in by Chief Justice A. C. DesBrisay at Government House Thursday night.

Gen. Pearkes sent a message to his former Esquimalt-Saanich constituents thanking them for supporting him as MP.

"While he was doing some fighting over in France, some people were at home making money," said Mr. Perrault.

"Liberals are very happy to see him appointed."

Gen. Pearkes cleaned out his Ottawa desk Tuesday.

GIFTS

He presented each member of his personal staff with a gift in individual interviews. Later the staff gave him a party and presented him with four statuettes.

Gen. Pearkes' message: "During the 15 years I have been in Parliament I have endeavored to represent the constituency to the best of my ability. Once elected I have always regarded myself as the representative of all those living in the constituency regardless of party affiliations."

"It is indeed a great honor to have been chosen as Her Majesty's representative in British Columbia."

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me how casement windows (which open out) can be screened?

J.W.L.

A. Screens can be hinged separately, or put on slides, and operated from the inside. There is also a type of screen which does not open, but has in it a small opening through which one can control opening and shutting of the casement window itself.

Q. What is skydiving I've heard a little about? J.J.

A. It is the sport of parachute jumping, with technique of body control when in free fall to land as near a target area as possible. Divers use body movements to change direction and maintain balance. Divers open chutes between 2,000 and 1,500 feet from the ground, and jumps are made from an average 15,000 feet.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1960 — PAGE 25

MONTE ROBERTS

There is very little in the way of good news these days, so I am very happy to bring you some good news.

You need have no fear of the forces of science which may be unleashed one day by way of nuclear war.

Nuclear war, and the nuclear fallout everyone expects to follow, won't harm you a bit.

As long as you are a chicken, or maybe a duck, turkey, or bald eagle.

I have this on the authority of a Canadian Press report of a civil defence conference in Edmonton.

At this conference, an official of the federal emergency planning organization, C. H. Little by name, told his palpitating audience poultry will have the best chance of surviving in nuclear fallout.

He said poultry can absorb more than double the radiation of man.

And, presumably, go away, fluttering their wings and cackling wickedly over the prone bodies of chicken farmers and duck hunters and such like.

To me, this is an encouraging thought.

I have known many chickens in my time, but I have never known one who lay awake night hatching plans for a nuclear bomb.

Thus, when the ultimate genius of man (who is so much more intelligent than a lowly chicken) devises the ultimate nuclear explosion to blow his fellow man off the face of the earth, there will still be a stupid chicken shaking the roentgens off her feathers and wondering where in the world has everybody gone?

At this period in the "progress" of man, chicken will be, indeed, a la King.

I can only hope you have taken the above in the spirit in which it was given; there is hope for all to guard against nuclear fowl-out.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

John Prosser, no fixed address, got his "tea and toast" the hard way Tuesday night — and gets it by courtesy of the city of Victoria and British Columbia for the next 30 days.

He stopped a man on Broad Street Tuesday afternoon, and asked him for 25 cents, "for tea and toast."

The man, off-duty constable John Adams, said Prosser reeked of liquor, and booked him for vagrancy by begging.

Prosser pleaded guilty in court today and was given 30 days in jail when the court heard a record of similar offences.

A meeting of Oak Bay council Tuesday night resulted in tentative approval for a $293,262 bylaw to cover construction of paving, sidewalks, sewers and water mains in the Lansdowne Heights and Uplands areas.

The municipality's share will be $92,983.

The council gave third readings to a bylaw authorizing spending of $30,500 for road machinery and $3,000 for radio equipment; and a bylaw extending two existing water mains at a cost of $12,000.

Registrations for the new boys' club formed by Victoria Noon Optimists will take place at 1248 Fort Street, near Central Junior High School, from 7 to 9 tonight and Thursday.

Boys will be asked to state what they would like to learn at the club. There is no admission fee.

Nathaniel French, of Victoria, was fined $250 and remanded for consideration of licence suspension when he pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to impaired driving.

He was checked by police as he drove on Blanshard, weaving, on the wrong side and without headlights after a previous collision with a parked car at Bay Saturday night.

Mission to the Lepers meeting will be held in Central Baptist Church, Pandora Avenue, on Thursday at 2 p.m. There will be a film on Africa.

Regular meeting of the Newfoundland Club will be held in the Orange Hall on Courtney Street on Thursday at 8 p.m.

Harold Loyd Paul, HMCS Antigonish, was fined $35 and ordered to pay $15 damage when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to wilful damage.

Police said he had been drinking at a house party, broke a window there then broke two more at a service station at 3351 Douglas.

Fine, costs and tax arrears totalled $119.60 for Peter Lee, of Manor Upholstery Co., 1750 Government, when counsel appeared for him in city police court Tuesday.

The accused was charged with failing to file a return under the Social Security Tax Act and entered a plea of guilty.

Magistrate William Ostler fined Lee $25, assessed $2.50 costs and instructed $92.10 in tax arrears be paid.

McGill Graduates' Society of Victoria will meet next Wednesday at Victoria Golf Club to hear an address by Dr. David L. Thomson, vice-principal and dean of the faculty of graduate studies and research at McGill University.

Dr. Thomson's address will follow a dinner scheduled for 7 to 9 tonight and Thursday.

Registrations for the new boys' club formed by Victoria Noon Optimists will take place at 1248 Fort Street, near Central Junior High School, from 7 to 9 tonight and Thursday.

Boys will be asked to state what they would like to learn at the club. There is no admission fee.

LT.-CMDR. GIGG
... his third submarine

First Sub To Get Flying CO

Lt. Cdr. Edmund Gigg, an 18-year veteran of the Royal Canadian Navy, has been named as the RCN's first submarine captain since the First World War.

He will take command of HMCS Grilse, the former USS Burrfish, which is being refitted in the U.S. naval shipyard at Philadelphia before being commissioned into the RCN on loan from the USN.

Commissioning is expected to take place about next March.

The submarine will be based at Esquimalt, and used as a target in anti-submarine training for destroyers and frigates.

THIRD COMMAND

HMCS Grilse will be the third submarine commanded by Lt. Cdr. Gigg, who has spent considerable time training with the Royal Navy.

Born in North Bay in 1924, Lt. Cdr. Gigg entered the RCNVR in 1942 as an ordinary seaman. He was promoted to sub-lieutenant in 1943, and in October of that year went to the UK for training and service in Royal Navy submarines. He later undertook flying training with the RN and won his pilot's wings in 1947.

From January, 1948, to April, 1949, he flew with naval air squadrons from HMCS Shearwater, the naval air station, and from the aircraft carrier HMCS Magnificent.

BACK TO UK

In September, 1950, he returned to the UK for further service in RN submarines. After serving as executive officer of the British submarine Alderney, he became commanding officer of HM submarine Selene and later of HM submarine Tally Ho.

Returning to Canada, he has been serving at Ottawa on the staff of the department of personnel (officers).

Strachan Hits 'Hoffa' Move By Government

CCF Leader Robert Strachan today accused the government of "Hoffa tactics" in denying dues checkoff for civil servants.

The government Tuesday announced it is stopping immediately payroll deductions of dues for the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

Mr. Strachan called the action "vindictive."

"I am shocked that any government that is supposed to uphold democracy should take such action."

NO WARNING

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black notified the 11,000-member association by telegram of his decision.

There was no advance warning.

"Jimmy Hoffa would have agreed wholeheartedly with Mr. Black's telegram," said Mr. Strachan.

John F. Murrell, organization director of the BCGEA said in Vancouver the government's move was a violation of the principle of the Labor Relations Act.

The Act grants unions the right to dues checkoff.

Civil servants are not covered by the Act.

The BCGEA does not have bargaining rights with the government.

Mr. Murrell said "it is a sad lack of good faith."

The dues checkoff had been arranged some 12 years ago "and accepted by successive administrations without question."

Mr. Strachan accused the government of trying to break the association.

The reason for its action was given as concern over the possible political connection between the association and the CCF.

New CCF Members Visit 'Battlefield'

A housewife, a social worker and a full-time politician came to Victoria today to "case" the Legislative Buildings.

They are three of the CCF's new MLAs elected Sept. 12.

The housewife is Camille Mather, wife of a Vancouver newspaper columnist, elected in Delta.

The social worker is Dave Barrett, case work superintendent for supervisor of the John Howard Society, elected in Dewdney.

The $5,000-a-year full-time MLA is Jim Rhodes, second member for Delta.

FROM SOCIAL CREDIT

All three took Social Credit seats in the legislature.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan this morning showed them around the buildings.

"They're anxious to get on the job," he said.

A new legislative session probably will begin in late January. Mr. Strachan said the CCF will hold a two-day caucus immediately before the session.

YOUNGEST MEMBERS

Rhodes and Barrett, both 30, will be the youngest MLAs. "I decided I couldn't devote myself to two jobs and have a home life too," said Rhodes.

"So I am going to be a full-time MLA."

An Island Tug and Barge Ltd. salvage crew patched a holed fish packer overnight and at 9:40 a.m. today pulled her off a rocky islet about two miles from Oak Bay Beach boathouse.

The packer Seamaid, registered at Burnaby, B.C., was pulled off by the harbor tug Island Trooper, shown above taking the strain on the towline, wire, seconds before the wooden-hulled, 50-foot vessel was released from a rock pinnacle which pierced her hold amidships.

The Seamaid went aground at 7:30, inbound for Vancouver with a load of salmon from the West Coast fishing grounds.

A crew of four were aboard.

DISTRESS CALL

The Seamaid sent a distress call, and the RCAF search and rescue co-ordination centre called Island Tug and Barge Ltd., which sent the coastal tug Island Despatcher, along with Island Trooper, to the scene.

In the face of a falling tide and choppy seas, the fishpacker's crew—as yet unidentified—were taken off while the ITB salvage team went to work to patch the hull, which was holed in two places.

UNDER LIGHTS

Underwater work was carried out by ITB's chief diver, Jack Daley, under powerful searchlights from the two tugs.

Two auxiliary pumps were put aboard the Seamaid to contain the water as the hull was being patched. The underwater work was completed by low tide at 4 a.m., and the pumps continued until it was considered safe to pull the stranded vessel loose.

Shortly after 9 a.m., a towing wire from Island Trooper was sent over by work boat to the Seamaid, and the fishpacker was pulled free on the rising tide.

With freshening winds coming up, the crippled vessel was towed into Cadboro Bay to await calm weather before being towed to McKay Cormack Ltd. for repairs.

'SHRIMP PINK'
FOR LICENCES

It's shrimp and maroon for '61.

The B.C. automobile licence designers came up with this combination for plates to be issued Jan. 2 by the Motor Vehicles Branch.

The maroon on this year's plates will remain for figures, the background will be "shrimp pink."

1,000 Visitors
Set One-Day
Gallery Record

A record one-day attendance of over 1,000 visitors was counted at the Art Gallery last Sunday, closing day of the Dutch and Flemish Old Masters exhibit.

Total attendance at the half-million dollar show was about 7,100, Curator Colin Graham announced.

This included conducted tours for 30 classes from local public and private schools.

Trained volunteers from the Women's Committee gave talks to 700 adults and children during the three-week show.

One of the most successful stages in the centennial wing of the Gallery.

Married only two years, Rhodes has a three-week-old baby.

Mr. Barrett was fired from his government job in Haney Correctional Institute when he announced he would seek the Dewdney CCF nomination.

He went on to whip Labor Minister Lyle Wicks at the polls.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Trace Your Family Tree On an Irish Tea Towel!

By PENNY SAVER

Sure the "little folk" of Ireland must have had a hand in the making of colorful Irish linen tea towels, now selling in a downtown store! Every proud clan of Ireland is shown in its location on colorful map that decorates towels. Whether you're a Kelly, O'Neill, McMahon, O'Connor or a member of any of the numerous Celtic families that owe their origin to the land of the shamrock—you're pretty sure to find yourself represented on this attractive map.

Add to this, motifs such as the pretty colleens, thatched cottages and Irish horses with which towel is trimmed and you have a fair idea why store manager tells me they make quite a hit!

You won't be able to resist singing a few bars from your favorite Irish ballad when you hear that the price tag shows the modest sum of $1.25.

Selling at the same price are towels that will appeal to our Scottish friends. Whether it's Aberdeen, Edinburgh, Dundee or Glasgow that's your old "home," there's a towel with pictures of these cities—just waiting for you!

As for our English friends—who could pass by an opportunity to get a towel centred with a colored portrait of a beef-eater, with an outline of the Tower of London as a backdrop? And if Trafalgar Square brings back memories for you, why not buy a dish towel that's decorated with this well-known landmark?

You don't have to be of English extraction to realize that a well-padded tea cosy, placed over the family teapot, can do wonders for that "nice cup of tea." Imported tea cosies I saw this week are not only efficient—they're beautiful!

Coming in gorgeous colors, including a rich red, silver grey and forest green, all are made of silk brocade that's highlighted with Oriental scenes. All have quilted linings and cord trim with small slits at side seams. The price, too, is appealing. Cosies sell at $2.25.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped today give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

The new season's TV shows are with us again, our living room rugs are getting a lot more use than in the days before TV. This extra use can soon take years from the normal life of your rug. Perhaps you should turn your rug so that the same areas do not receive the wear year after year. But most important is to remove the sharp gritty particles from deep within the pile that grind away at the rug fibres. This can only be done by professional "deep cleaning" from the CARPETORIUM. The experts at the CARPETORIUM use only the finest of materials and equipment that guarantees new beauty and longer life for your rug when you phone EV 3-2861 for a FREE estimate. ## Ammunition for You in Battle of the 'Cold War'

This time of year we battle the "cold war" on two fronts! Being human you probably will have from one to six colds this year, the blustery winter months being the worst. Although the common cold is the most prevalent of all diseases, its prevention and cure still baffles the medical profession. No one is immune but good health habits build up resistance and make you better able to fight off the bugs to which you will be subjected.

Lack of sleep, overfatigue, overheated houses, stores and offices, improper diet or bad habits in cleanliness, sparse clothing in cold winds, sudden and extreme changes in temperature—all of these predispose you to colds. Overeating and overfatigue are two main factors in your defeat.

For the same reason the dishes and glasses and silver used by the patient should be most carefully washed and rinsed in boiling water. As a matter of fact, it is better to keep them apart from the utensils used by the rest of the family.

The person who has a cold should be isolated as much as possible. Keep the doors of his room closed and air it out periodically.

DEAR ABBY

'Dear Cinderella . . .'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is for the 14-year-old girl who signed herself "FEELS LIKE CINDERELLA" because she had a 12 o'clock curfew on all dates:

I am also 14 and I am not permitted to date at all! My parents say I can't date until I am 16 and I don't think they are "strict and old-fashioned." They are doing this for my own good and I love them for it.

PLENTY OF TIME. DEAR ABBY: Maybe "Cinderella" would be interested in knowing that I am 17 and am not allowed to stay out later than 11:30 unless it is a very special occasion. What can a 14-year-old girl do after 11 o'clock besides park somewhere? I agree with you, Abby. No girl that age should stay out past 11.

"IT AND MALE." DEAR ABBY: Please tell "CINDERELLA" this: I am 15 and just started to car date. Last Friday night I went out with a 17-year-old boy. Just as we were leaving my house, my mother said, "Be in by twelve." My date said, "She'll be in by 11 because I have to be in by 11:30."

WORSE THAN CINDERELLA.

DEAR ABBY: In the fairy tale "Cinderella," little "Cindy" lost her slipper. The modern 14-year-old Cinderella who complained because she had to be home by midnight could eventually lose her head.

"PRINCE CHARMING." DEAR ABBY: I have news for Cinderella. If she is only 14 and can stay out until midnight, she is growing up much too fast. I am 14 and have to be in bed with lights out by 9:30 every night. I think you will find that girls who get a reputation for being fast are the ones who started to date early.

WILLING TO WAIT.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and am engaged to be married in June to a boy who is 21. We both live in this city and attend the local college here. He is allowed to come to my house only three nights a week and he has to be out of the house by 10:30. If we date, I must be home by midnight. I don't think my parents are unreasonable. I realize they made these restrictions because they know what's best for me and I am grateful.

WILL HAVE A WHITE WEDDING.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding "Cinderella" and her "strict, old-fashioned" parents. She should thank God for parents who care enough about her to put a time limit on her dates. I didn't turn into a "pumpkin," I turned into something much worse, because I was—TURNED LOOSE AT 13.

Attend Christening on Mainland

Several Victorians travelled to the mainland this week-end to attend the christening of the four young sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Knapp of New Westminster in Glenayre United Church Sunday. The children are Howard Bruce, six; Paul Andrew, four, and Peter Matthew and Steven James, 18-month-old twins. Among those attending from Victoria were the boys' grandparents, Dr. B. E. Knapp and Mrs. Knapp and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beutelspacher; Bruce's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Scrimgeour, and Lieut. Harry Beutel and Mrs. Beutel, godparents for Steven. Mr. James Knapp, Victoria, was also present. Paul's godparents are Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Knapp of West Vancouver, while Peter's godparents are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Langdon of North Vancouver. Following the ceremony a luncheon was held at the parents' home. Other guests were Mrs. A. Whelan, Burnaby; Mr. and Mrs. J. Rompelman and the Misses Judy and Anne Rompelman.

Woman at Head of United Nations Might Help, Mrs. Gravely Thinks

OTTAWA (CP)—A woman and professional women's club members across Canada might cut down verbiage and start meetings on time, Mrs. Phyllis Gravely of Victoria, B.C., said Tuesday night. "I do hope Madame Pandit of India did a better job when she was president." Mrs. Gravely, awarded a fellowship by the Federation of the Canadian Business and Professional Women's Clubs to attend the 15th General Assembly, told the Ottawa club that UN delegates use thousands of words where 100 would be effective. "I don't understand why meetings start 25 minutes late or why the president asks for promptness but does not appear himself until at least 20 minutes after schedule." Mrs. Gravely, executive director of the YWCA in Victoria, was chosen for the UN trip from some 7,500 business and professional women's club members across Canada. disarmament talks, but because international volunteer agencies such as the YWCA and business and professional women's clubs work together at the international level. New nations were quick to include women in their delegations. Victoria Women's Institute, Friday at 2 p.m., small Orange Hall. Halloween social. Wear costumes. Bring friends. Christ Church Cathedral Parish Guild, Memorial Hall, Friday at 2:30 p.m.

Sidney Club Receives Charter; Gift of Gavel

In an impressive ceremony held recently in the private dining-room, in the Sidney Hotel, members of Sidney Business and Professional Women's Club received their charter. A dinner preceded the presentation.

Tables were decorated with arrangements of bright autumn foliage and flowers. Sidney president Mrs. E. W. Harker presided and special guests seated with her were

Does tension cause churning stomach?

Fast-paced living, plus irregular meals or too much smoking or drinking, can often lead to stomach discomfort. But with TUMS you get relief, fast! Just eat a couple of those mild, minty tablets... they go to work immediately to relieve acid indigestion, stop heartburn! Keep a roll of TUMS handy—ready to use anytime, any place. No water or glass needed... and there's never any after-taste. TUMS cost so little too!

for the tummy

Miss Hilda Hesson, past president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs; Miss E. L. Forbes, a national vice-president; Miss Dorothy Lucas, Nanaimo, Vancouver Island regional officer; Councillor Mrs. Sam Roberts, who brought greetings from the Sidney township; Miss Ella Brett and Mrs. Grace Hume, presidents of the Victoria and Nanaimo Clubs, and Mrs. Agnes Joughin, representing the president of the Duncan Club. Following dinner Miss Lucas installed club officers as follows: Mrs. Harker president; Mrs. E. A. Lassfolk, vice-president; Mrs. Ella Harrison, recording secretary; Mrs. H. G. Horth, corresponding secretary; Miss Betty Eckert, treasurer and Mrs. W. Kynaston, executive member. Miss Hesson presented the president with a gavel, gift of Miss Adele de Lange, Vancouver, immediate past provincial president. All officers received club pins.

Charter was given by Miss Forbes who explained the symbolism of lighted candles used in the ceremony to represent each club in British Columbia, and the national and international federations. At conclusion a new candle was lighted to represent the Sidney Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Iddioli are pictured after their recent marriage in St. John's Anglican Church. Mrs. Iddioli is the former Miss Olive Askey of this city. Newlyweds are now making their home in Calgary.

Mrs. George A. Philion, the former Miss Sheila Carlin, poses for this attractive portrait after her recent marriage in St. Andrew's Cathedral. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Carlin of Salt Spring Island.

Bull-McLeod Wedding in Edgewood Church

Gladioli decorated the altar of St. Annes Anglican Church at Edgewood, B.C., when Beverly Anne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barrie McLeod was married to Kenneth Harold Bull, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edward Bull, of Oak Bay.

Officiant at the double ring ceremony was Rev. E. G. White. The bride's aunt was organist and also directed the choir, which offered "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden". Miss McLeod entered the church with her father.

bridal gown of silk organza styled with a fitted bodice, scalloped sweetheart neckline and sleeves tapering to lily points. Tangerine carnations and white stephanotis formed the bridal bouquet.

Similarly attired were the bridal attendants, who were Mrs. Donald Spence, matron of honor; Grace Tolmar and Darlene Nesbitt, bridesmaids, and Barbara Bull, junior bridesmaid.

They wore turquoise gowns with white accessories and

Best man was Alex Sokalski and ushers were Donald Williams, Barry Gilling and Colin McLeod.

Centring the bride's table was a three-tier wedding cake, flanked with flowers and candles. William Craft proposed the toast.

For travelling the bride chose a turquoise fitted suit with white accessories and yellow corsage.

The young couple motored to Vancouver, where the groom will continue studies at the University of British Columbia and the bride will teach school.

BEAUTY HINTS

Small eyes can be made to appear larger by applying eye shadow a bit higher than the crease in the lid and extending the color outward slightly past the actual width of the eye.

To keep your face as fresh and young-looking as possible, never let a day by without adding a rich active moisturizer cream to your skin. Because your face is exposed to the elements, which rob the skin of its natural moisture, it is important to replace it.

With the new "unadorned" neckline fashion for fall, after years of rope beads and other necklaces, the wise woman will be sure to give her neck the same attention she gives her face so that its bareness will be smooth and swan-like.

TODAY'S RECIPE

APPLE JELLY

One tablespoon plain gelatin, 1/4 cup gold water, 3 cups finely diced apple, 1 1/2 cups water, 1 cup granulated sugar, dash nutmeg.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Mix sugar and water in saucepan, bring to boil. Add apples, cook until barely tender, about 3 to 5 minutes. Add gelatin, then nutmeg, stir until dissolved. Spoon into 6 custard cups; chill until set. If desired, a few drops lemon juice may be added with the nutmeg.

Housing Plan Gives Lift to All

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Walker has announced broad changes in federal housing policy that will affect just about everyone connected with the industry—whether he buys, sells, builds or rents houses.

Mr. Walker, announcing the moves late Tuesday, said he hoped the "sweeping" changes would "inject new life into the lagging house-building industry."

Main changes were the lifting of the income ceiling on direct mortgage loans made by the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and boosting the repayment time to 30 years from 25.

Other changes extend home improvement loans under the National Housing Act to rental projects and apartment buildings; ease terms on financing of low-rental housing, and provide government loans to builders for construction of display homes.

FROM PRIVATE LENDERS

The government-guaranteed home-improvement loans, made by private lenders were previously available only to private home owners. The interest rate on them is six per cent.

They will cover such work as structural alterations, interior and exterior decorating, plumbing, heating and electrical work. There are some 1,500,000 rental housing units in Canada.

Mr. Walker said "an extensive program of repair and improvement work should result this winter."

Elimination of the income ceiling on direct government mortgage loans departs from a policy begun this year that such loans would not be made to families earning over a ceiling ranging from $7,000 to $7,600 annually, depending on family size.

INCOME LEVEL STAYS

A spokesman said the government rule of thumb on minimum incomes would remain the same. This has been that no person should tie up more than 27 per cent of his annual income in mortgage and tax payments in buying a house.

On a $10,000 loan there would be a cut in principal and interest payments of $4.30 a month with the extended mortgage.

Mr. Walker said CMHC would make immediately available two direct loans for each builder for the construction of model or display homes to help sales.

Mr. Walker also announced improved financing terms for low-rental project builders. Elaborating on an earlier announcement of a decrease to 5½ per cent on the interest rate for low-rental or limited dividend loans, he said CMHC would increase the maximum government loan from $5 to 90 per cent on projects begun before year's end.

Atomic Waste Dump Halted

NICE, France (Reuters)—The French government has postponed plans to dump 6,500 containers of radioactive waste in the Mediterranean later this month, it was learned from official sources here today.

The French atomic energy high commissioner, Francis Perrin, said in a statement Tuesday there would be no danger to residents, fishermen, bathers or sailors in the plan to drop the waste in 7,000 feet of water between Corsica and the mainland.

But the Nice municipal council unanimously decided that the council administration would go on strike if the plan was carried out.

Veteran Waived

MONTREAL (CP)—Alex Ponton, a 29-year-old veteran of 10 Big Four Football League seasons, today was placed on waivers by Montreal Alouettes.

TOP POST in Canadian real estate has been won by Col. Herbert R. Fullerton, president of Johnston & Co. Ltd., Victoria, and Blane, Fullerton & White Ltd., Vancouver. He was elected president of Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards at the 17th annual convention at Toronto.

Cheap German A-Power Throws Scare Into U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP)—U.S. authorities were deeply concerned Tuesday over the possible future spread of the world's nuclear club following a report that West Germany has made progress in developing a low-cost machine for turning out enriched uranium.

The German machine, employing the centrifuge cream-separator method of forcing the bomb fuel uranium-235 from the heavier U-238 isotope, may not only have an impact on bomb-making but also in the competitive field of commercial atomic power.

A Western scientific source believes it may even lead to the end of the U.S. monopoly in the export of fissionable materials for peaceful power and bombs—a monopoly the U.S. is employing to some advantage in her over-all diplomatic policy.

The state department, while maintaining it will be some years before the German development can be used in a practical way for bomb-making materials, indicated it already is negotiating with Germany to keep her process secret and the machines under strict export control.

A German embassy spokesman

Monaco, the independent principality on the French Riviera, has no income tax, getting its state revenues from the Monte Carlo gambling casino.

man agreed his government has a "moral obligation" to keep the machines from falling into the hands of unscrupulous regimes. He said he believes his government will ban exports of the "latest models."

AGREE WITH YOU WHOLEHEARTEDLY
But dogs,

OUR ONLY THOUGHT IS TO HAVE MORE AND MORE OF YOU EXPERIENCE THE DELIGHTS OF Fetch

And so, regretfully, to make sure that no mere money considerations prevent your human from buying you your first box of Fetch, we are offering Fetch for 13¢ less than the usual price. (sob). If your human presents the coupon below to the grocer, he will be allowed 13¢ off the purchase price.

DOGS, DO NOT LET YOUR HUMAN MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY.

A playful but firm nip on the calf should serve to get him moving to the grocery store. Or, more simply, a good look at your long, even rows of glistening white teeth should do the trick.

Remember, dogs

Fetch is the new kind of dog food, that delights your palate two ways.

1

Dry, as it comes from the box, Fetch is a crunchy delight.

And dogs, Fetch is packed with the nourishment you need to hold your position as ruler of your household.

Yes, dogs! Calcium for bones and teeth! Vitamin A, to keep your coat glossy, and your eyes soft and beguiling... Fetch has

And dogs, you might point out to your money-minded human that Fetch is all food. (Why pay for water?)

Please cut carefully along this line, to assist your grocer. (Offer expires December 31, 1960.)

K WOULD HAVE HELPED SEAMAN WHO DEFECTED

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev said today "it's all right with me" if a Soviet sailor defector stays in the United States.

"If he had approached me—I was on the same ship—I would even have furnished him with some money for the first period until he finds a job," Khrushchev said.

Yanks Square Series

Whip Pirates 12-0,
Final Game Thursday
(Play by Play Page 35)

PITTSBURGH (AP)—New York Yankees opened up their big guns again behind the sparkling pitching of Whitey Ford to crush Pittsburgh Pirates 12-0 and tie the World Series at 3-3. The seventh and deciding game will be played at Forbes Field Thursday.

It was the third runaway victory by the Yankees, who lost three tight thrillers to the clawing Pirates. The Yankees broke and tied a flock of World Series batting records, headed by surprising Bobby Richardson.

The little second baseman, who hit only .252 and batted in only 26 runs during the regular season, drove in three runs with two triples. This gave him 12 runs batted in, breaking the World Series record of 10 set by Yogi Berra in 1956 and tied by Ted Kluszewski in 1959.

Second Whitewash

Ford, who pitched a four-hitter in the Yankees' 10-0 third-game victory, earned his second shutout with a seven-hitter. He fanned five and had the Pirates hitting into the dirt most of the way.

It was Whitey's seventh World Series triumph against four defeats and the first time he has won a series game away from Yankee Stadium.

The Yanks bombed six pitchers for 17 hits, scoring one run in the second inning, five in the third and two each in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

In Thursday's decider, Pittsburgh righthander Vernon Law, winner of two games, probably will face rookie Bill Stafford, who pitched five shutouts in the 5-2 loss to Pittsburgh in the fifth game Monday.

Big Third Inning

Ford's scratch single with the bases loaded in the second inning got the Yanks off in front. In the third they blasted right-hander Bob Friend from the mound with a five-hit, five-run attack for a 6-0 lead.

Vinegar Bend Mizell blanked the Yanks in the fourth and fifth.

In the sixth, the Yanks clubbed Fred Green and Clem Labine for two runs on Clete Boyer's triple and singles by Tony Kubek, Roger Maris and Berra.

In the seventh, catcher John Blanchard's double, Richardson's second triple—tying a series record for triples in one game—and Ford's sacrifice bunt made it 10-0. In the eighth, a single by Maris, a force play by Mantle and a steal off second by Mickey, a single by Berra and another double by Blanchard accounted for the final two runs.

PRAYER FOR TODAY:
O God, help me to maintain a sense of justice in all human relations. But when someone has erred, may I be slow to criticize and quick to forgive, extending to others the compassionate understanding I would wish for myself. May I remember Him Who knew and cared for all, and, walking in His ways, may my life reveal His spirit and reflect His forgiving love. Amen.

SLAYER STRIKES TWICE

Clutching his chest from first of two wounds, Japanese Socialist Party chairman Inejiro Asanuma stands helpless as his assailant whirls to thrust home 12-inch sword for second time. Fatal attack by right-wing extremist, 17-year-old Otake Yamaguchi, came during Tokyo political rally. White spot above victim's left hand is flower on his lapel. He holds handkerchief in his right hand.

Queen to Nepal

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen and Prince Philip will visit Nepal from Feb. 26 to March 1 next year, Buckingham Palace announced today.

AL Franchise Bid

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball team in the International League, today made a formal application for an American League franchise.

Gomulka Goes Home

Law Unlocks Office

REGINA (CP)—Regina lawyer Dr. M. C. Shumatcher, facing 14 charges of perjury, today regained free access to his office and home following a week-long legal battle over search warrants.

Reds Admit Embargo

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Communist regime admitted today it is halting shipments of building materials from other Soviet satellites to West Berlin.

TOKYO (AP)—Inejiro Asanuma, Socialist Party chairman and leader of Japanese opposition to the U.S.-Japanese alliance, was stabbed to death with a foot-long sword by a student today.

The assassin, a slender 17-year-old identified as Otake Yamaguchi, a former member of the ultra-nationalist Greater Japan Patriotic Society, was hurled to the floor by spectators and carried off to a police station.

Asanuma was hurried to hospital where he died of two chest wounds, one of them close to the heart.

Afterwards a crowd marched on the police station where Yamaguchi was being held. The demonstrators, whose numbers were estimated at 10,000, were led by left-wing Zengakuren Student Association and the Sohyo Labor Federation. A few broke windows in an ineffectual attempt to break in.

Half an hour later, the bulk of the crowd marched on to

Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's official residence. There they snake-danced back and forth in the street, shouting "Give Asanuma back to us" and "Ikeda quit."

The demonstrators began to disperse after a cabinet official received leaders of the labor federation and told them the government would proceed with firmness.

Police reported that Yamaguchi told them Asanuma was a traitor who was trying to sell Japan to the Communists. It was the first major political murder in 24 years in a country where "government by assassination" was prevalent before the war. But it was the third political stabbing by a right-wing fanatic in four months. The other two victims recovered.

Making Plea for Clean Campaign

Asanuma, 61, was in the midst of a speech at a meeting urging a clean campaign for the parliamentary elections

rushed forward from the side of the stage. The youth wore a raincoat over his black school uniform and boots, a trademark of the greater Japan Patriotic Society. He struck twice with his sword. Asanuma staggered two or three steps, held his chest, mumbled some words and collapsed on the blood-spattered stage.

Japan's three major political parties were participating in the forum, and Conservative Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda was sitting less than two yards away.

The Greater Japan Patriotic Society is a Nazi-like group that dreams of restoring Japan to its pre-war greatness. It clashed repeatedly with the left-wing demonstrators in riots last spring against the U.S.-Japanese treaty which forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

The leader of the society,

In radio broadcast today, President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina said he will not resign his post despite a military threat to topple him from power.

Army and navy officers mobilized forces and demanded he crack down on Communists and Peronistas in his government.

Cuba Seeks Death for 4

SANTA CLARA, Cuba (Reuters)—The prosecution demanded the death penalty for four of nearly 150 "counter-revolutionaries" on trial here before a revolutionary tribunal.

The prosecution also demanded 30-year jail sentences for 84 of the accused and 20-year sentences for 56 others. Four were cleared.

An American, Richard Pectoraro, was among those on trial.

The counter-revolutionaries—13 are former soldiers of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista and two are women—were captured in the Sierra del Escambray in Las Villas province.

Faces UN Defeat On Two Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced Negro discrimination in the United States today and said colonial peoples must "take to arms" unless the United Nations decrees an end to colonialism throughout the world.

Khrushchev, undaunted by his General Assembly defeat on disarmament last night (see Page 3), went back today to denounce colonialism and to speak on another pet subject—the American U-2 spy flight. He faced defeat on both issues.

Khrushchev said previously that Russia's proposal to free the world's remaining "colonial" peoples immediately was not aimed at inciting insurrection anywhere. Today he told the General Assembly:

"The Soviet people are on the side of those who fight for their liberation from colonial yoke and for their freedom and independence!"

He spoke from a prepared text and his delivery was in sharp contrast to his violent and angry speech to the assembly Wednesday night.

HITS DAG AGAIN

Khrushchev said Congolese strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu and "other scum-traitors" were in the pay of the "imperialist colonialists" who were bribing the army so they could continue their "colonial plunder" in the Congo.

He renewed his charges against Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and accused him of doing "everything possible in favor of the colonialists" in the Congo.

"He disorganized by his actions the normal function of the legitimate government (of Patrice Lumumba), deprived it of the means of transportation and communications," Khrushchev said.

He said western civilization

had decreased the native population in the Congo "almost twofold." He said Australia eliminated its aboriginal population and said the same thing happened to the American Indians, except for a remaining few who were "driven into reservations."

Then he took up the U.S. discrimination issue.

"Though the American Negroes at long last attained freedom after the abolition of slavery," he said, "even now they are subject to discrimination; their elementary human rights being limited to the minimum."

"In many a state of the U.S.A., Negro children cannot study at the same schools where white children study. Negroes are not allowed in the hotels where white people stay, they are not admitted to theatres, restaurants."

He said western civilization

DE GAULLE
... calls cabinet

France Facing Crisis

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle called his cabinet together today to deal with the greatest government crisis since France formed the Fifth Republic in the summer of 1958.

An alarming rise of tension over a string of international and domestic issues threatened to make the national Assembly's autumn working session, opening Friday, the stormiest in years.

ATOMIC VETO

Weekend statements by de Gaulle demanding an "atomic veto" aroused serious concern here and abroad over possible implications for the free world alliance.

De Gaulle's opponents also were hammering at him over Algeria and his snubbing of the United Nations.

Left-wing French intellectuals have gone so far as to urge desertion and draft-dodging from service in Algeria. The government has blacklisted them.

Two large labor organizations demanded a joint audience with the president to discuss "Algerian problems and the climate created by the prolongation of the conflict."

If De Gaulle gives in to the leftists and agrees to an Algerian peace on the terms of the Moslem rebels, he faces the anger of right-wingers who want to keep Algeria part of metropolitan France.

Labor Asks Session Now

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1,100,000-member Canadian Labor Congress urged today that Parliament be summoned into special session to deal with what the CLC says will be Canada's worst postwar unemployment problem this winter.

The call for an early parliamentary session on unemployment was made by the CLC's executive council at the midpoint of a three-day conference here.

At the same time CLC President Claude Jodoin issued a major policy manifesto outlining labor's program for full employment in Canada.

"Unemployment this winter will undoubtedly be the worst for any winter since the war—probably much worse than in the biggest previous postwar recession three years ago," said the CLC policy statement that warned flatly that Canada has entered a new recession.

The congress statement was issued just 12 days before Prime Minister Diefenbaker is to meet representatives of some 22 national organizations for a round-table conference on unemployment problems.

GROWTH TOO SLOW

The CLC manifesto contrasted falling production against a growing labor force which "will grow even faster as post-war babies come into the labor market."

Even before the new recession began, the statement said, production was not growing fast enough to provide enough jobs to go around and unemployment was "far above" pre-recession levels.

To achieve full employment, the congress proposed a far-reaching plan aimed at management, labor and all levels of government. It included proposals for large-scale government investment in the public sector of the economy to provide jobs and needed public works and services; adoption of a Full Employment Act with the appointment of a council of economic advisers and a bolstered labor department.

Other major proposals included immediate tax reductions to stimulate economic recovery, fiscal and monetary policies designed to establish a steady annual 5-per-cent rate of growth in the economy, cooperation with the provinces and municipalities to expand the public sector of the economy.

Pearl Harbor Warning Ignored

THEY WOULDN'T LISTEN

LONDON (AP)—A new biography of Sir Hubert Wilkins says the Australian explorer gave the United States four months' warning of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The book by John Grierson—Sir Hubert Wilkins, Enigma of Exploration—says Wilkins had dinner with the Japanese consul-general in Singapore at the Raffles Hotel in August, 1941.

The consul-general drank too much and confided that the Japanese were going to sink the American fleet in Pearl Harbor from the air.

The Japanese said he was telling Sir Hubert, who died in 1958, "because I know you are a secret agent of the Americans, and because I know you will report this conversation to them and to the British, too, and they will say this story is fantastic, the consul was drunk and did not know what he was talking about, and they will not believe it."

That is exactly what happened, Grierson writes. Sir Hubert's report was not believed.

B.C. Mortgage Firm Has Big Year

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

A B.C. mortgage company with offices in Victoria, Vancouver and Vernon has had a rather phenomenal year.

Clayton says the company expanded its business in a period when Canadian financial corporations were affected by a restriction of available funds and a consequent increase in cost of money.

At the end of July, its fiscal year, Clayton's earned income had risen to $556,147 from $275,987 in 1959 and $282,021 in 1958, the first year of operation.

Net earnings rose to $160,254 from $103,491 in 1959 and $14,875 in 1958.

Common share earnings rose to 78c on 205,320 shares outstanding from 58c on 151,890 shares in 1959 and 29c on 50,391 shares in 1958.

operations by opening a branch office in Calgary and by buying Societe d'Entrepris du Canada of Quebec, which could be absorbed by the company.

He noted that some lenders had given excessive financing in order to sell real estate. Many had unhappy experiences, he said, confirming the desirability of higher equity requirements as required by the firm.

Industrials, Oils Maintain Position

Industrials and western oils were trendless today at the close of light trading on the stock markets, while golds and base metals remained on the down side.

Indexes generally were lower in a slight downward drift. AT TORONTO, Dominion Stores led industrial winners with a 2-point gain at 61 1/2.

Huron and Erie went ahead 1 1/2 at 57 1/2, and Texaco Canada improved a point at 50. Canada Malt dropped a point at 53.

AT LONDON, the stock markets were again rather irregular today, but gilt-edged securities remained firm. Greek bonds lost further ground and dollar stocks were mainly lower.

AT NEW YORK, copper sold a bit on news of a price cut. Some of the wider-moving electronics fell victim to more profit-taking.

On the Canadian side, Walker Gooderham and International Nickel were each down 1/2. American exchange prices were mixed.

AT MONTREAL, Steel Co. of Canada at 65 and Henry Morgan at 28 1/2 both dropped one point to lead losers.

Counter-Attack Faces Hunters At Deep Cove

Tragedy Stalks Country Roads

Irresponsible hunters who defy shooting regulations in the Deep Cove area this season are likely to become the hunted.

The Deep Cove Property Owners' Association — fed up with repeated breaches in the regulations — have posted the area with 150 signs reading: "No shooting or hunting without owner's permission."

They are being supported in their campaign by RCMP and the provincial game department, who have promised to assist with plain clothes patrols if necessary.

A spokesman for the association said there is a long history of irresponsible acts in the area.

During the pheasant shooting season last year two children on the main highway en route to school received facial gun-shot wounds.

"You take your life in your hands to travel down some of the roads in the area during the season," he said.

JAIL TERMS

Regulations under the Game Act permit no entry to fenced property without the owner's permission. No person may fire from or across a roadway or from an auto. No pheasant shooting is permissible on Sundays.

Failure to observe these regulations is punishable by fines up to $500 or six months in jail. Removal or defacing signs marking private property is subject to the same scale of penalties. Pheasant shooting starts on Saturday.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: George Leslie Wildman, Work Point, $25; Edward Itody, Work Point, $25; Marion Brown, 2545 Killarney, $20, for driving without a licence.

Pero Bacica, 2645 Graham, $20 for failing to stop at a red light.

Enrico Perri, 1813 Quadra, $100 for driving while under suspension.

David Henry Cooke, 1321 Sussex, $10 for reversing direction when unsafe.

Claire Hummel, HMC Dockyard, $25 for violation of driving restriction and $20 for driving without a licence.

Ronald Alexander Milligan, 1425 Bay, $20 for failing to set brakes.

1,000 Visitors Set One-Day Gallery Record

A record one-day attendance of over 1,000 visitors was counted at the Art Gallery last Sunday, closing day of the Dutch and Flemish Old Masters exhibit.

Total attendance at the half million dollar show was about 7,100, Curator Colin Graham announced.

This included conducted tours for 30 classes from local public and private schools.

'NAVY'S BEST FOR YOU' SAYS JUDGE

Naval seaman Roy Wells, 24, of HMCS New Glasgow, who was found guilty last week of unlawfully entering a dwelling at 1002 Johnson, was put on a year's probation today in city police court.

Wells, who had been drinking but in the opinion of police was not intoxicated, went through a window into the bedroom of a 15-year-old girl, where he dropped part of his uniform bearing name and regimental number.

Magistrate William Ostler suspended sentence on the basis of Wells' good service record and hoped the young man would not be discharged.

"The navy is the best thing for you," he said.

The court called Wells' act "foolish, stupid behavior. I think that you had sufficient to drink that your thinking processes were impaired."

Fond Farewell Given Pearkes

Maj.-Gen. George Pearkes today wound up his affairs in Ottawa before flying to Victoria Thursday and his post as B.C.'s lieutenant-governor.

The chief of staff gave a dinner for Gen. Pearkes Tuesday night. The army has arranged a party for him to-night.

Gen. Pearkes relinquished the job of defence minister Tuesday to take the B.C. post. He will be sworn in by Chief Justice A. C. DesBrisay at Government House Thursday night.

Gen. Pearkes sent a message to his former Esquimalt-Saanich constituents thanking them for supporting him as MP.

"While he was doing some fighting over in France, some people were at home making money," said Mr. Perrault.

"Liberals are very happy to see him appointed."

Gen. Pearkes cleaned out his Ottawa desk Tuesday.

GIFTS

He presented each member of his personal staff with a gift in individual interviews. Later the staff gave him a party and presented him with four statuettes.

Gen. Pearkes' message: "During the 15 years I have been in Parliament I have endeavored to represent the constituency to the best of my ability. Once elected I have always regarded myself as the representative of all those living in the constituency regardless of party affiliations."

"I would like to take the opportunity of thanking you all for the support you have given me."

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me how many windows in the Parliament building can be opened?

A. Screens can be hinged separately, or put on slides, and operated from the inside. There is also a type of screen which does not open, but has in it a small opening through which one can control opening and shutting of the casement window itself.

Q. What is skydiving I've heard a little about? J.J. A. It is the sport of parachute jumping, with technique of body control when in free fall to land as near a target area as possible. Divers use body movements to change direction and maintain balance. Divers open chutes between 2,000 and 1,500 feet from the ground, and jumps are made from an average 13,000 feet.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve legal problems, nor will it attempt to put a value on gold, silver, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealer.

Strachan Hits 'Hoffa' Move By Government

CCF Leader Robert Strachan today accused the government of "Hoffa tactics" in denying dues checkoff for civil servants.

The government Tuesday announced it is stopping immediately payroll deductions of dues for the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

Mr. Strachan called the action "vindictive."

"I am shocked that any government that is supposed to uphold democracy should take such action."

NO WARNING

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black notified the 11,000-member association by telegram of his decision.

There was no advance warning.

"Jimmy Hoffa would have agreed wholeheartedly with Mr. Black's telegram," said Mr. Strachan.

John F. Murrell, organization director of the BCGEA said in Vancouver the government's move was a violation of the principle of the Labor Relations Act.

The Act grants unions the right to dues checkoff.

Civil servants are not covered by the Act.

The BCGEA does not have bargaining rights with the government.

Mr. Murrell said "it is a sad lack of good faith."

The dues checkoff had been arranged some 12 years ago and accepted by successive administrations without question.

Mr. Strachan accused the government of trying to break the association.

LT.-CMDR. GIGG ... his third submarine

First Sub To Get Flying CO

Lt.-Cmdr. Edmund Gigg, an 18-year veteran of the Royal Canadian Navy, has been named as the RCN's first submarine captain since the First World War.

He will take command of HMCS Grilse, the former USS Burrfish, which is being refitted in the U.S. naval shipyard at Philadelphia before being commissioned into the RCN on loan from the USN.

Commissioning is expected to take place about next March.

The submarine will be based at Esquimalt, and used as a target in anti-submarine training for destroyers and frigates.

THIRD COMMAND

HMCS Grilse will be the third submarine commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. Gigg, who has spent considerable time training with the Royal Navy.

Born in North Bay in 1924, Lt.-Cmdr. Gigg entered the RCNVR in 1942 as an ordinary seaman. He was promoted to sub-lieutenant in 1943, and in October of that year went to the UK for training and service in Royal Navy submarines. He later undertook flying training with the RN and won his pilot's wings in 1947.

BACK TO UK

In September, 1950, he returned to the UK for further service in RN submarines. After serving as executive officer of the British submarine Alderney, he became commanding officer of HM submarine Selene and later of HM submarine Tally Ho.

Returning to Canada, he has been serving at Ottawa on the command of HMCS (officers).

MONTE ROBERTS

There is very little in the way of good news these days, so I am very happy to bring you some good news. You need have no fear of the forces of science which may be unleashed one day by way of nuclear war.

Nuclear war, and the nuclear fallout everyone expects to follow, won't harm you a bit.

As long as you are a chicken, or maybe a duck, turkey, or bald eagle.

I have this on the authority of a Canadian Press report of a civil defence conference in Edmonton.

At this conference, an official of the federal emergency planning organization, C. H. Little by name, told his palpitating audience poultry will have the best chance of surviving in nuclear fallout.

He said poultry can absorb more than double the radiation of man.

And, presumably, go away, fluttering their wings and cackling wickedly over the prone bodies of chicken farmers and duck hunters and such like.

To me, this is an encouraging thought. I have known many chickens in my time, but I have never known one who lay awake night hatching plans for a nuclear bomb.

Thus, when the ultimate genius of man (who is so much more intelligent than a lowly chicken) devises the ultimate nuclear explosion to blow his fellow man off the face of the earth, there will still be a stupid chicken shaking the roentgens off her feathers and wondering where in the world has everybody gone?

At this period in the "progress" of man, chicken will be, indeed, a King.

I can only hope you have taken the above in the spirit in which it was given; there is hope for all to guard against nuclear fowl-out.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

John Prosser, no fixed address, got his "tea and toast" the hard way Tuesday night—and gets it by courtesy of the city of Victoria and British Columbia for the next 30 days.

He stopped a man on Broad Street, Tuesday afternoon, and asked him for 25 cents, "for tea and toast."

The man, off-duty constable John Adams, said Prosser reeked of liquor, and booted him for vagrancy by begging. Prosser pleaded guilty in court today and was given 30 days in jail when the court heard a record of similar offences.

***

A meeting of Oak Bay Council Tuesday night resulted in tentative approval for a $293,262 bylaw to cover construction of paving, sidewalks, sewers and water mains in the Lansdowne Heights and Uplands areas.

The municipality's share will be $92,993.

The council gave third readings to a bylaw authorizing spending of $30,500 for road machinery and $3,000 for radio equipment; and a bylaw extending two existing water mains at a cost of $12,000.

***

Registrations for the new boys' club formed by Victoria Noon Optimists will take place at 1248 Fort Street, near Central Junior High School, from 7 to 9 tonight and Thursday.

Boys will be asked to state what they would like to learn at the club. There is no admission fee.

***

Nathaniel French, of Victoria, was fined $250 and remanded for consideration of licence suspension when he pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to impaired driving.

He was checked by police as he drove on Blanshard, weaving, on the wrong side and without headlights after a previous collision with a parked car at Bay Saturday night.

Sidney Club Receives Charter; Gift of Gavel

In an impressive ceremony held recently in the private dining-room in the Sidney Hotel, members of Sidney Business and Professional Women's Club received their charter. A dinner preceded the presentation.

Tables were decorated with arrangements of bright autumn foliage and flowers. Sidney president Mrs. E. W. Harker presided and special guests seated with her were

Does tension cause churning stomach?

Fast-paced living, plus irregular meals or too much smoking or drinking, can often lead to stomach discomfort. But with TUMS you get relief, fast! Just eat a couple of these mild, minty tablets... they go to work immediately to relieve acid indigestion, stop heartburn! Keep a roll of TUMS handy—ready to use any time, any place. No water or glass needed... and there's never any after-taste. TUMS cost so little too!

Miss Hilda Hesson, past president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs; Miss E. L. Forbes, a national vice-president; Miss Dorothy Lucas, Nanaimo, Vancouver Island regional officer; Councillor Mrs. Sam Roberts, who brought greetings from the Sidney township; Miss Ella Brett and Mrs. Grace Hume, presidents of the Victoria and Nanaimo Clubs, and Mrs. Agnes Joughin, representing the president of the Duncan Club. Following dinner Miss Lucas installed club officers as follows: Mrs. Harker, president; Mrs. E. A. Lassfolk, vice-president; Mrs. Ella Harrison, recording secretary; Mrs. H. G. Horth, corresponding secretary; Miss Betty Eckert, treasurer and Mrs. W. Kynaston, executive member. Miss Hesson presented the president with a gavel, gift of Miss Adele de Lange, Vancouver. Immediate past provincial president. All officers received club pins.

Charter was given by Miss Forbes who explained the symbolism of lighted candles used in the ceremony to represent each club in British Columbia, and the national and international federations. At conclusion a new candle was lighted to represent the Sidney Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Iddiols are pictured after their recent marriage in St. John's Anglican Church. Mrs. Iddiols is the former Miss Olive Askey of this city. Newlyweds are now making their home in Calgary.

Mrs. George A. Philion, the former Miss Shelia Carlin, poses for this attractive portrait after her recent marriage in St. Andrew's Cathedral. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Carlin of Salt Spring Island.

Bull-McLeod Wedding in Edgewood Church

Gladlied decorated the altar of St. Angles Anglican Church at Edgewood, B.C., when Beverly Anne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John-Barrie McLeod was married to Kenneth Harold Bull, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edward Bull, of Oak Bay.

Officiant at the double ring ceremony was Rev. E. G. White. The bride's aunt was organist and also directed the choir, which offered "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden". Miss McLeod entered the church with her father.

Her veil of illusion net and lace misted from a tiara headpiece. The bride's godmother loaned her an heirloom necklace of pearls and diamonds to wear with her floor-length

bridal gown of silk organza styled with a fitted bodice, scalloped sweetheart neckline and sleeves tapering to flared points. Tangerine carnations and white stephanotis formed the bridal bouquet.

Similarly attired were the bridal attendants, who were Mrs. Donald Spence, matron of honor; Grace Tolman and Darlene Nesbitt, bridesmaids, and Barbara Bull, junior bridesmaid.

They wore turquoise gowns with white accessories and

Best man was Alex Sokalski and ushers were Donald Williams, Harry Gelling and Colin McLeod.

Centring the bride's table was a three-tier wedding cake, flanked with flowers and candles. William Craft proposed the toast.

For travelling the bride chose a turquoise fitted suit with white accessories and yellow corsage.

The young couple motored to Vancouver, where the groom will continue studies at the University of British Columbia and the bride will teach school.

BEAUTY HINTS

Small eyes can be made to appear larger by applying eye-shadow a bit higher than the crease in the lid and extending the color outward slightly past the actual width of the eye.

To keep your face as fresh and young-looking as possible, never let a day by without adding a rich active moisturizer cream to your skin. Because your face is exposed to the elements, which rob the skin of its natural moisture, it is important to replace it.

With the new "unadorned" neckline fashion for fall, after years of rope beads and other necklaces, the wise woman will be sure to give her neck the same attention she gives her face so that its bareness will be smooth and swan-like.

Sacred Retains Yale After Recount

Social Credit today retained the closest seat of the Sept. 12 election when a recount in Yale upheld the victory of Irvine Corbett.

Mr. Corbett gained four votes over his CCF opponent in a judicial recount held at Hope village offices.

He has a final lead of 29 votes.

Final figures: Corbett, 1,103; Evan McDougall, CCF, 1,074; John Collett, Liberal, 964; Joseph Lauder, Conservative, 390.

After final counting of ballots cast in the Sept. 12 election, Mr. Corbett held a lead of 25 votes.

End to B.C. Herring Tieup Sought

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-man delegation from the left-wing United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) left here today by air for Ottawa and a meeting with Fisheries Minister MacLean.

They hope to make a bid to end a 10-month-old tieup of British Columbia's herring industry.

English Soccer League Asks Probe

LONDON (AP)—Officials of the English League demanded today a top-level investigation into reports that soccer stars had been bribed to throw games.

Nine league officials met for three hours, then urged a conference with the National Association, the ruling body of the sport.

Milwaukee Signs Pact With Mounties

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Mounties baseball club has signed a working agreement with Milwaukee Braves of the National League, assuring some sort of hookup between the Pacific Coast League team and the Braves for the 1961 season.

The agreement will allow Milwaukee to place about 15 players on Vancouver's Triple A baseball roster before the Saturday major league draft deadline.

Last WHL Holdout Signs With 'Peg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Warriors announced today that they have come to terms with second-year defenceman Ted Green, the Western Hockey League club's only holdout. Green will play tonight against Edmonton Flyers in the second game of the season for both clubs.

Glasgow Wins European Soccer Round

BUDAPEST (AP)—Scotland's Glasgow Rangers lost to the Ferenc Varos soccer club of Hungary today but advanced to the first round of the European championship series on a combined goal basis. Today's score was 2-1. Previously Glasgow had won 4-2.

The Scots next play the West German champions.

Nikita Incites
Colonial Strife

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced Negro discrimination in the United States today and said colonial peoples must "take to arms" unless the United Nations decrees an end to colonialism throughout the world.

Khrushchev, undaunted by his General Assembly defeat on disarmament last night (see Page 3), went back today to denounce colonialism and to speak on another pet subject—the American U-2 spy flight. He faced defeat on both issues.

Khrushchev said previously that Russia's proposal to free the world's remaining "colonial" peoples immediately was not aimed at inciting insurrection anywhere. Today he told the General Assembly:

"The Soviet people are on the side of those who fight for their liberation from colonial yoke and for their freedom and independence!"

He spoke from a prepared text and his delivery was in sharp contrast to his violent and angry speech to the assembly Wednesday night.

Khrushchev said Congolese strongman Co. Joseph Mobutu and "other scum-traitors" were in the pay of the "imperialist colonialists" who were bribing the army so they could continue their "colonial plunder" in the Congo.

He renewed his charges against Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and accused him of doing "everything possible in favor of the colonialists" in the Congo.

"He disorganized by his actions the normal function of the legitimate government (of Patrice Lumumba), deprived it of the means of transportation and communication," Khrushchev said.

SLAYER STRIKES TWICE

Clutching his chest from first of two wounds, Japanese Socialist Party chairman Inejiro Asanuma stands helpless as his assailant whirled to thrust home 12-inch sword for second time. Fatal attack by right-wing extremist, 17-year-old Otao Yamaguchi, came during Tokyo political rally. White spot above victim's left hand is flower on his lapel. He holds handkerchief in his right hand.

Cuba Seeks
Death for 4

SANTA CLARA, Cuba (Reuters)—The prosecution demanded the death penalty for four of nearly 150 "counter-revolutionaries" on trial here before a revolutionary tribunal.

The prosecution also demanded 30-year jail sentences for 84 of the accused and 20-year sentences for 56 others. Four were cleared.

An American, Richard Pectoraro, was among those on trial. The counter-revolutionaries—13 are former soldiers of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista and two are women—were captured in the Sierra de Escambray in Las Villas province.

Vancouver Stocks

No closing sales were quoted on the Vancouver Stock Exchange this afternoon.

TOKYO (AP)—Inejiro Asanuma, Socialist Party chairman and leader of Japanese opposition to the U.S.-Japanese alliance, was stabbed to death with a foot-long sword by a student today.

The assassin, a slender 17-year-old identified as Otao Yamaguchi, a former member of the ultra-nationalist Greater Japan Patriotic Society, was hurled to the floor by spectators and carried off to a police station.

Asanuma was hurried to hospital where he died of two chest wounds, one of them close to the heart.

Afterwards a crowd marched on the police station where Yamaguchi was being held. The demonstrators, whose numbers were estimated at 10,000, were led by left-wing Zengakuren Student Association and the Sobu Association.

The demonstrators broke windows in an ineffectual attempt to break in.

HELD SNAKE-DANCE

Half an hour later, the bulk of the crowd marched on to Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's official residence. There they snake-danced back and forth in the street, shouting "Give Asanuma back to us" and "Ikeda quit."

The demonstrators began to disperse after a cabinet official received leaders of the labor federation and told them the

Records Tumble
In Runaway Win

PITTSBURGH (AP)—New York Yankees opened up their big guns again behind the sparkling pitching of Whitey Ford to crush Pittsburgh Pirates 12-0 and tie the World Series at 3-3. The seventh and deciding game will be played at Forbes Field Thursday.

It was the third runaway victory by the Yankees, who lost three tight thrillers to the clawing Pirates. The Yankees broke and tied a flock of World Series batting records, headed by surprising Bobby Richardson.

The little second baseman, who hit only .252 and batted in only 26 runs during the regular season, drove in three runs with two triples. This gave him 12 runs batted in, breaking the World Series record of 10 set by Yogi Berra in 1956 and tied by Ted Kluszewski in 1959.

Second Whiteywash

Ford, who pitched a four-hitter in the Yanks' 10-0 third-game victory, earned his second shutout with a seven-hitter. He fanned five and had the Pirates hitting into the dirt most of the way.

It was Whitey's seventh World Series triumph against four defeats and the first time he has won a series game away from Yankee Stadium.

The Yanks bombed six pitchers for 17 hits, scoring one run in the second inning, five in the third and two each in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

In Thursday's decider, Pittsburgh right-hander Vernon Law, winner of two games, probably will face rookie Bill Stafford, who pitched five shutouts in the 5-2 loss to Pittsburgh in the fifth game Monday.

Big Third Inning

Ford's scratch single with the bases loaded in the second inning got the Yanks off in front. In the third they blasted right-hander Bob Friend from the mound with a five-hit, five-run attack for a 6-0 lead.

Vinegar Bend Mizell blanked the Yanks in the fourth and fifth.

In the sixth, the Yanks clubbed Fred Green and Clem Labine for two runs on Cleto Boyer's triple and singles by Tony Kubek, Roger Maris and Berra.

In the seventh, catcher John Blanchard's double, Richardson's second triple—tying a series record for triples in one game—and Ford's sacrifice bunt made it 10-0. In the eighth, a single by Maris, a force play by Mantle and a steal off second by Mickey, a single by Berra and another double by Blanchard accounted for the final two runs.

France
Facing Crisis

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle called his cabinet together today to deal with the greatest government crisis since France formed the Fifth Republic in the summer of 1958.

An alarming rise of tension over a string of international and domestic issues threatened to make the national Assembly's autumn working session, opening Friday, the stormiest in years.

ATOMIC VETO

Weekend statements by de Gaulle demanding an "atomic veto" aroused serious concern here and abroad over possible implications for the free world alliance.

De Gaulle's opponents also were hammering at him over Algeria and his snubbing of the United Nations.

Left-wing French intellectuals have gone so far as to urge desertion and draft-dodging from service in Algeria. The government has blacklisted them.

Two large labor organizations demanded a joint audience with the president to discuss "Algerian problems and the climate created by the prolongation of the conflict."

If De Gaulle gives in to the leftists and agrees to an Algerian peace on the terms of the Moslem rebels, he faces the anger of right-wingers who want to keep Algeria part of metropolitan France.

THEY WOULDN'T LISTEN

LONDON (AP)—A new biography of Sir Hubert Wilkins says the Australian explorer gave the United States four months' warning of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The book by John Grierson—Sir Hubert Wilkins, Enigma of Exploration—says Wilkins had dinner with the Japanese consul-general in Singapore at the Raffles Hotel in August, 1941.

The consul-general drank too much and confided that the Japanese were going to sink the American fleet in Pearl Harbor from the air.

The Japanese said he was telling Sir Hubert, who died in 1958, "because I know you are a secret agent of the Americans, and because I know you will report this conversation to them and to the British, too, and they will say this story is fantastic, the consul was drunk and did not know what he was talking about, and they will not believe it."

That is exactly what happened, Grierson writes. Sir Hubert's report was not believed.

Labor Asks Session Now

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1,100,000-member Canadian Labor Congress urged today that Parliament be summoned into special session to deal with what the CLC says will be Canada's worst postwar unemployment problem this winter.

TB-FREE COWS, CANADA'S AIM

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal agriculture department hopes to declare Canada's 12,000,000 cattle free of tuberculosis within the next year, officials said today.

Only a portion of Alberta's Peace River country and Newfoundland remain to be cleaned up—involving about 29,000 head.

Rites Saturday For 17-Year Youbou Resident

DUNCAN—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Frederick Thomas Maier, 78, a resident of Youbou, for 17 years who died Monday in King's Daughters' Hospital.

He was born in Brooke Township, Ont., and moved west in 1900. He had resided near Shellbrook, Sask., and also lived at Prince Albert and at Saskatoon, before coming to B.C. in 1943.

He was a member for 28 years of the Eagles' Lodge, Aerie Number 2105.

Surviving are the widow, Hazel Mary; three sons, Harold, Saskatoon, Frederick, Vancouver, John, Nanaimo; three daughters, Mrs. Emily Stonehouse, Calgary, Florence Egan, Blackford, Lily Kelly, Edmonton; seven sisters and two brothers in Ontario and Detroit, 14 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

President L. W. Dircks, of the Church of the Latter Day Saints, will officiate at services in the Hirst Funeral Chapel at 1:30 p.m.

Gomulka Goes Home

NEW YORK (UPI)—Polish Communist party boss Wladyslaw Gomulka left for home today after attending the United Nations General Assembly. He flew to Copenhagen en route to Warsaw.

Gifts Still Coming For Chinese

NANAIMO (CP)—Gifts continue to come in towards the rebuilding of this Vancouver Island city's Chinatown, almost destroyed in a fire on Sept. 30.

Fifty-four cartons of clothing for fire victims was received from Burnaby Boy Scouts during the weekend, while at the same time Chinese Benevolent Association spokesman, Foon Sien, of Vancouver, reported the provincial government is interested in rebuilding the area.

Sien said he will suggest to the Nanaimo Chinese fire relief and rebuilding committee that a home for elderly Chinese be included in rebuilding plans.

He said Education Minister Peterson had expressed interest in such a proposal and "if we continue receiving money from all parts of Canada, then we can ask the various governments to participate."

Meanwhile, a thief was working in opposition: A collection box and its contents were stolen from the fire scene Monday.

Queen to Nepal

K WOULD HAVE HELPED SEAMAN WHO DEFECTED

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev said today "it's all right with me" if a Soviet sailor defector stays in the United States.

"If he had approached me—I was on the same ship—I would even have furnished him with some money for the first period until he finds a job," Khrushchev said.

TO SAVE CHUM Fishing Closure Ordered

The Gulf of Georgia, Johnstone Straits, and the Fraser River have been closed to commercial fishermen as an emergency measure to conserve the small run of chum salmon.

The closure was ordered Tuesday by W. R. Hounston, Pacific area director for the federal fisheries department.

He said the action was taken because early catches indicate a possible repetition of the 1956 chum cycle, the second poorest in recorded history.

Closure of the Gulf and Johnstone Straits will continue until 6 p.m. Sunday, reopening them for four days. Fraser River closure is in effect until next Monday, then closing again the following Wednesday.

North Island Ferry Urged By Ex-Mayor

NANAIMO—Annual meeting of Vancouver Island Raters' Association on Oct. 24 will hear former Victoria mayor Claude L. Harrison advocate a ferry route connecting the northern part of Vancouver Island with the mainland, similar to the Swartz Bay Tsawwassen link.

Other business at the meeting will include a resolution asking the provincial government to include all motor vehicles, house trailers, house boats and powered pleasure boats among taxable property for school tax assessment purposes.

A spokesman said that at present a large number of B.C. residents not owning houses or real estate do not pay property taxes although they own motor vehicles, which are legally described as property.

There have been only 12 labor disputes involving 854 employees in B.C. so far this year.

Labor Disputes Fall Off in B.C.

Mr. Wicks said 33,997 working days have been lost so far in 1960, compared with 1,414, 394 lost days in 1959.

"Currently B.C. is completely free of strikes under provincial jurisdiction," he said.
